IAS guaranteeing the future of Scientology
NOW AND FOREVER

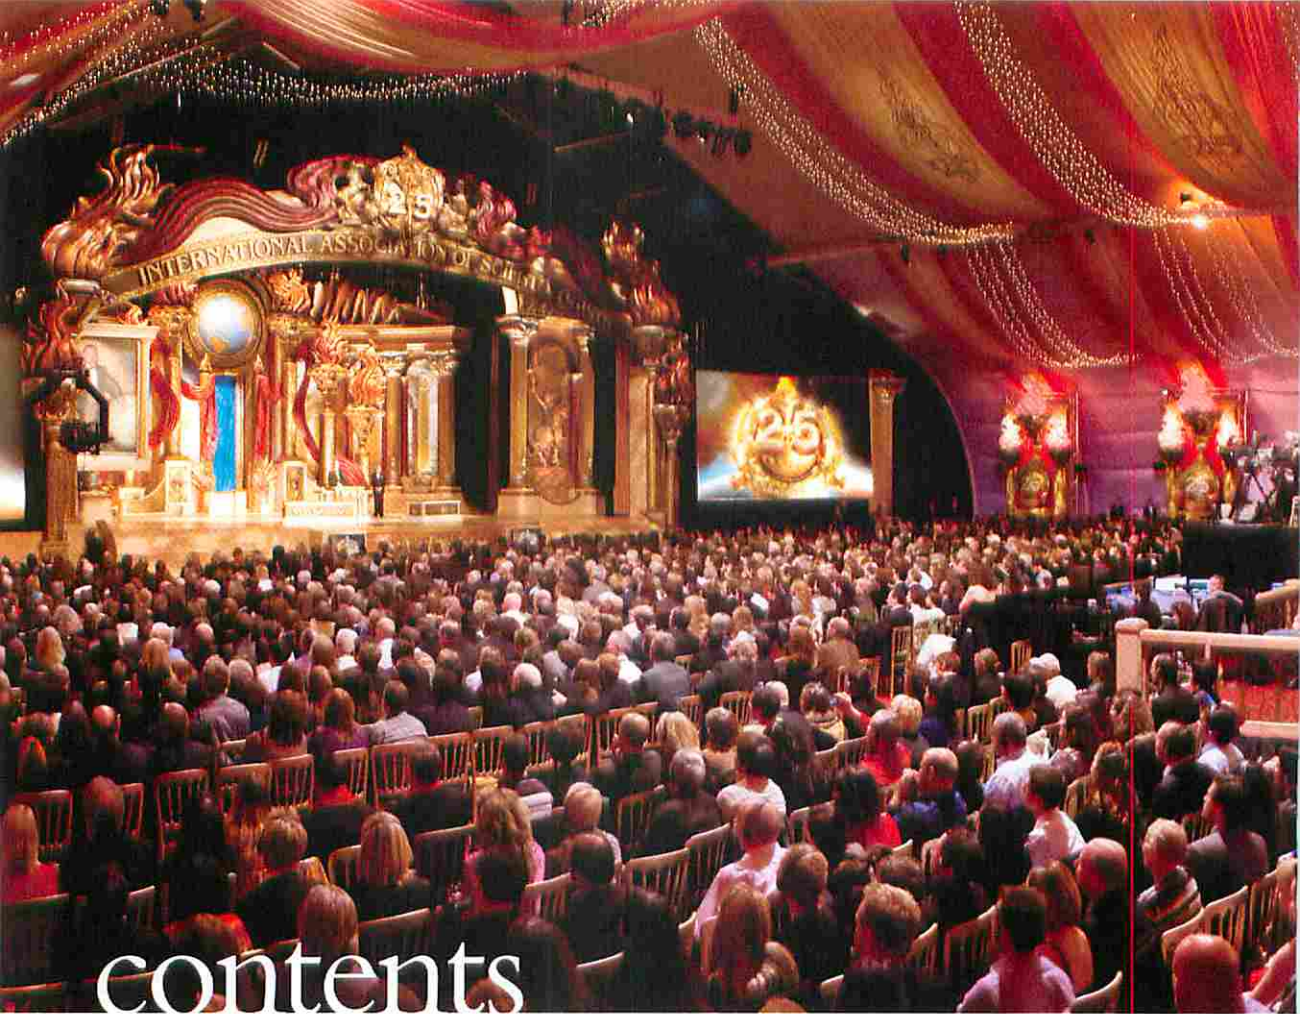

A large crowd of people is marching down a city street at night. The scene is illuminated by a bright, warm light source, possibly a fire or a large lamp, creating a hazy, golden glow. In the foreground, several individuals are visible, some holding flags. A large torch is held up on the right side of the frame. The background shows a multi-story building with lit windows. The overall atmosphere is one of a significant public demonstration or protest.

IAS PURPOSE

*To unite, advance, support and protect the Scientology religion and Scientologists in all parts of the world
so as to achieve the
Aims of Scientology
as originated by
L. Ron Hubbard*

The IAS Silver Anniversary was celebrated at Saint Hill, where the IAS was formed 25 years ago.

The IAS purpose was set forth 25 years ago when delegates from around the world gathered at Saint Hill to unite all Scientologists in one international body that could guarantee the future of Scientology: The International Association of Scientologists. The story of the IAS played out in full at this year's 25th Anniversary event: the story of unrelenting commitment and triumph over all barriers to guarantee the future of Scientology for eternity. Scientologists came from all over the world to be part of this momentous occasion. This issue of Impact brings the Anniversary weekend to you, from the biggest and best event in our history to the IAS Silver Anniversary Patrons Ball where we honored those whose support indeed makes our forward progress possible at the order of magnitude required to clear a planet.

The IAS 25th Anniversary event is something every member must see. It brings you the essence of what the IAS is and what it means to be an IAS member. It is now playing in every Church of Scientology.

As we now move into the future with the sponsorship of three spectacular new Ideal Orgs, the most effective Fourth Dynamic Salvage Campaigns ever, and our biggest Scientology Dissemination Campaign in history, we join shoulder to shoulder in guaranteeing the future of Scientology, united in overcoming any barriers to achieving our goals, because WE ARE THE IAS, NOW AND FOREVER.

"The prevalence of drugs in Sierra Leone is no secret. It is used as a transit point by drug cartels who are pushing drugs in America and in Europe. I wanted to fight back against illicit drugs in my country. In searching for a way to do this, I discovered the Truth About Drugs program. I am pleased to say that there is now a Foundation for a Drug-Free World Chapter in Sierra Leone.

"We distribute The Truth About Drugs booklets and spread the "Say No to Drugs" message far and wide. This summer I organized a parade with local officials and followed it with a seminar based on The Truth About Drugs booklets. THE HUMANITARIAN OBJECTIVE

by L. Ron Hubbard

The world needs Scientology. The year was full of storms. It was a fitting example of Man's lack of skill in politics, international relations, personal understanding and tolerance. The physical sciences are advancing into a world where the humanities have lagged behind.

This is where you can help. The humanitarian objective is to make a safe environment in which the Fourth Dynamic engram can be audited out. By "engram" we mean the mental block that prevents peace and tolerance; by "Fourth Dynamic" we mean that impulse to survive as Mankind, instead of just individuals. Obviously, we must do this.

An auditing session, where Scientology processing is administered, cannot be continually disturbed or held in a noisy, misemotional place. Therefore, the upsets and conflicts and intolerance of the planet would prevent or slow progress in trying to audit the world. That's obvious.

So we have a humanitarian objective: to make a safe environment in which the Fourth Dynamic engram can be audited. Therefore, we and you and all of us have a responsibility. You cannot live sanely in a world in which nations behave like criminals to their peoples and toward each other; in a world where pressure groups stamp out all rights in order to advance their own.

The building block of the world is the individual. Only to small extent, to some small extent does the individual have any rights or justice. Therefore, by defending the individual or group against injustice and oppression, and by advancing the cause of human rights, great progress can be made toward the humanitarian objective.

We do have a parallel in the early Christians. And the early Christians had a difficult time, because they spoke of human rights, love, spiritual freedom, just as we do; and we in Scientology are speaking of the same things but in more modern language and with more positive results as far as cases and so on are concerned.

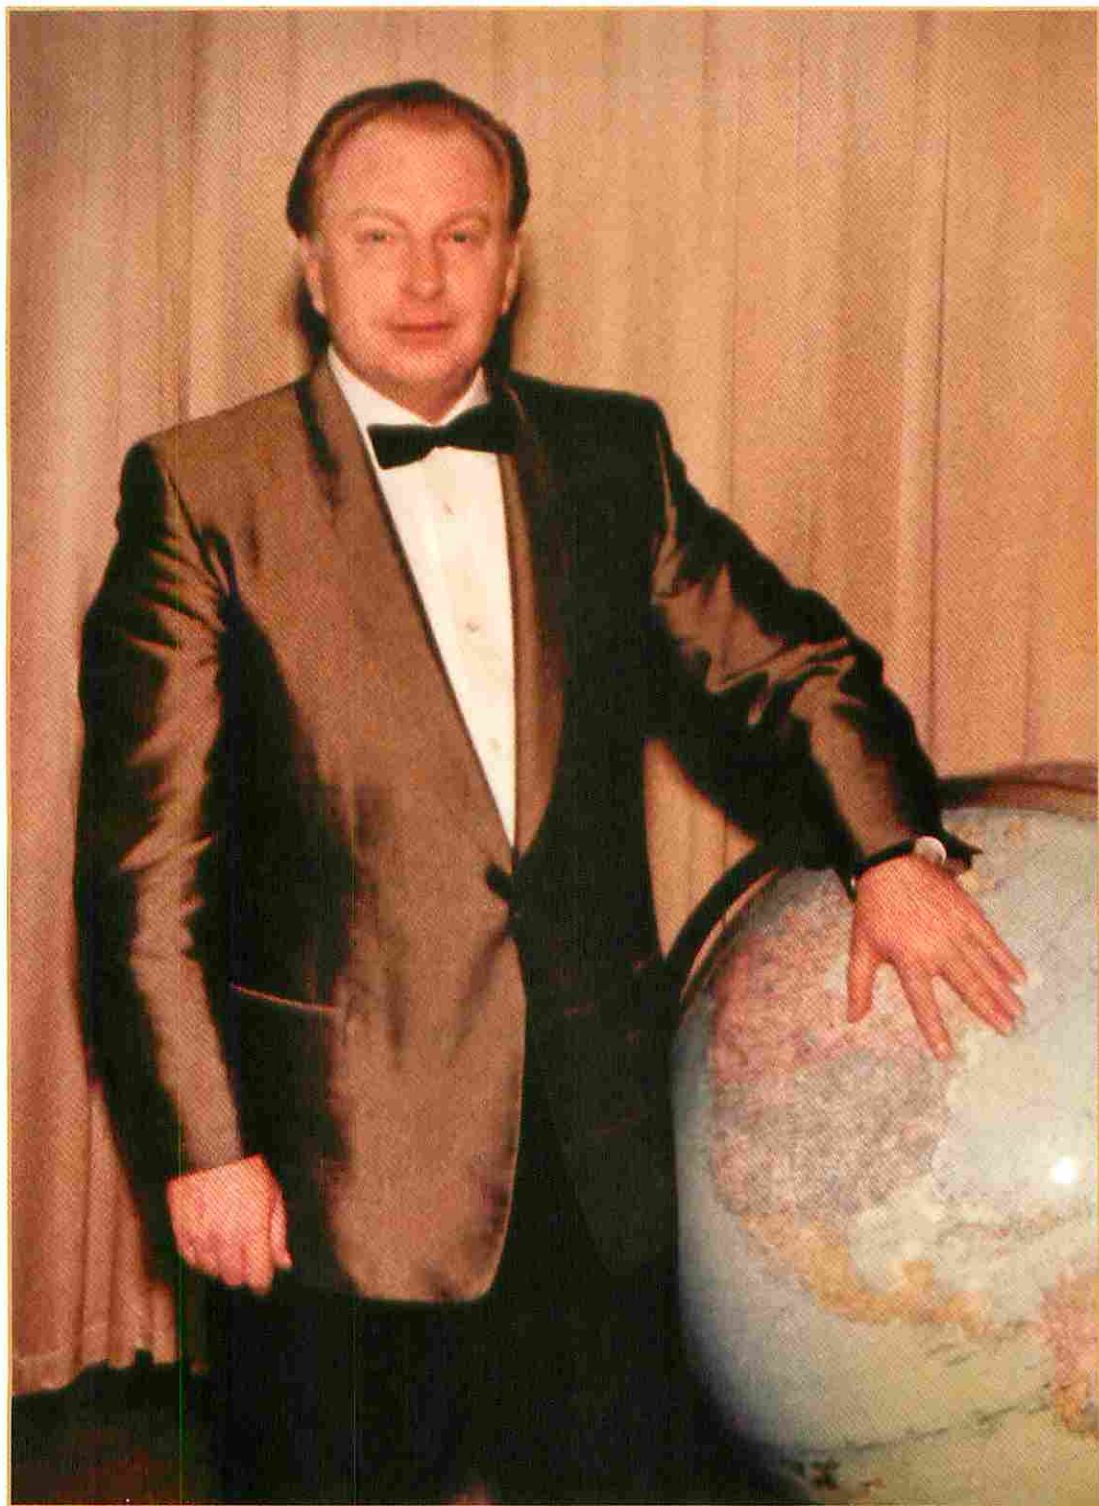

Our greater appeal to Mankind, whatever he knows of us, is that we stand for truth and for human freedom. And Mankind at this stage, where he has heard of us, knows only that we stand for greater spiritual freedom and greater human rights. He dimly senses we are the foes of inhumanity and brutality.

And actually that would be good enough for him to join us with a whole heart, and so every Scientologist should enlarge on this message. We must carry our message broadly to the world. Indeed, we must prepare our own way with an emphasis on greater human rights.

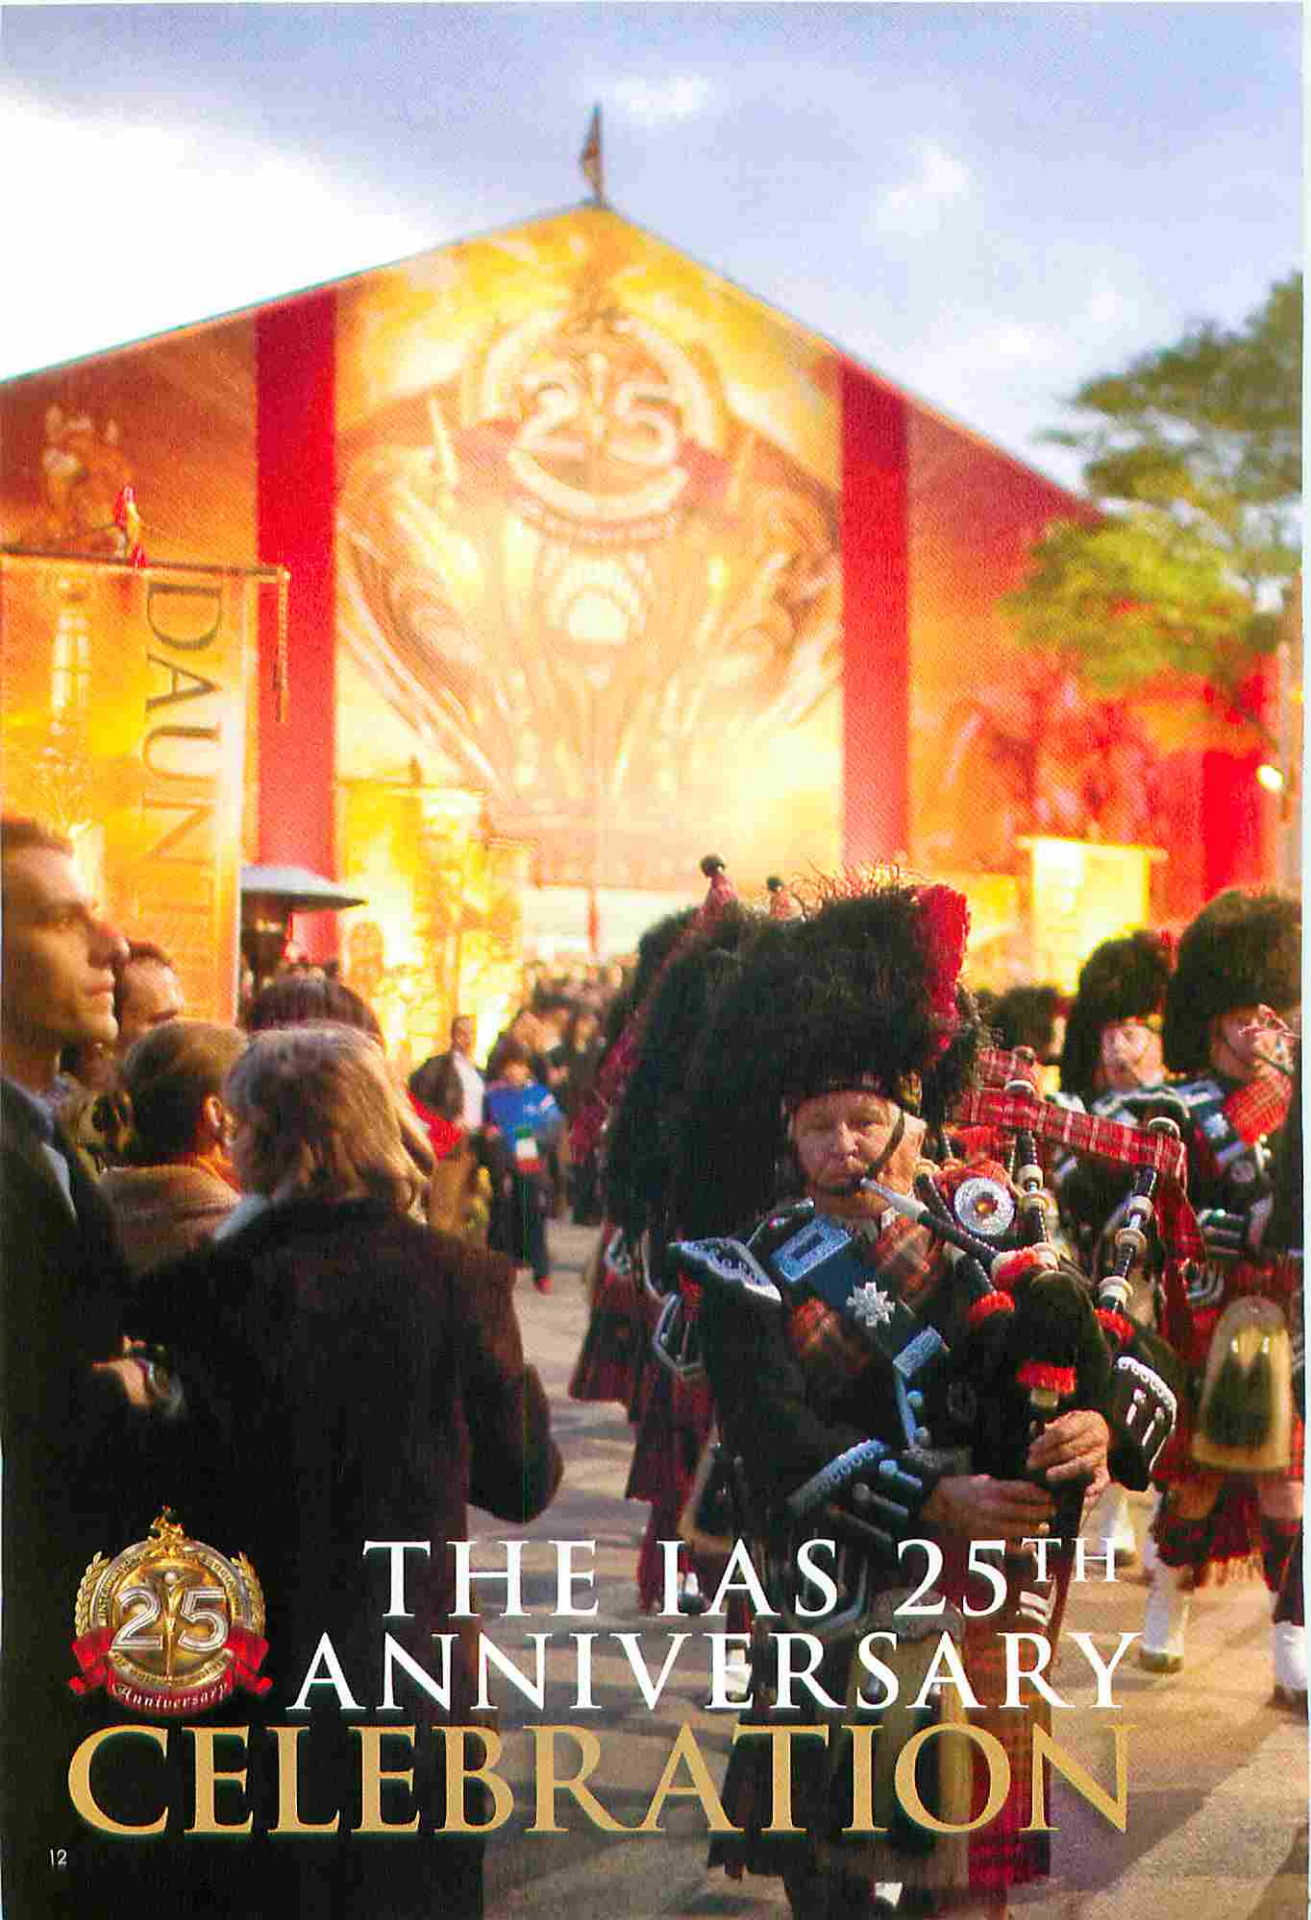

And please, for my sake, don't forget one thing: I am your friend. I am trying my best to do a job to bring tolerance and humanity to this planet in a very materialistic and often cruel age. I appreciate your help. I appreciate it more than I can tell you, and I wish to thank you and thank every staff member and thank every Scientologist for everything they're doing to make a better world come true.

From: Ron's Journal 1968

By defending the individual or group against injustice and oppression, and by advancing the cause of human rights, great progress can be made toward the humanitarian objective. —LRH

THE LAS 25TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

The IAS Silver Anniversary marked 25 years of guaranteeing the future of the Scientology religion. Thousands of members from 52 nations came to Saint Hill, birthplace of the IAS, to celebrate our accomplishments and prepare for an even greater future. They arrived by train, car, bus, plane and by boat, coming from Japan, the United States and all across Europe, South Africa and South America. The weekend began with the most monumental event in Scientology history as the Chairman of the Board Religious Technology Center chronicled the triumphant history of the IAS and set the course for the future.

The following day's Expansion Seminar gave members an in-depth look at the IAS-sponsored Fourth Dynamic Campaigns and the role each person plays in taking them to their communities. The IAS Field Disseminator segment of the seminar armed members with new tools to help them get into action and accelerate our expansion even further.

The Silver Anniversary IAS Patrons Ball was held in honor of those whose outstanding support fuels the IAS-sponsored Fourth Dynamic Campaigns and the foundation for all the IAS funds to advance Scientology: spectacular new Ideal Orgs at the pivot points of Earth and bringing the OT levels to every continental zone.

A record number of IAS Freedom Medal Winners attended this year's Summit. They are leading the way in bringing LRH Technology to a host of areas on the planet and have truly taken to heart that a Freedom Medal is not only an acknowledgment of accomplishment but a beginning of even greater reach into society.

The weekend was a celebration of accomplishment and a launch into an even greater future of even greater expansion on all fronts.

WHAT WE STAND FOR AS THE IAS

The Chairman of the Board
Religious Technology Center
Mr. David Miscavige welcomed
Scientologists to the IAS Silver Anniversary at Saint Hill—the very place where the IAS was formed and where we now mark 25 years of magnificent accomplishment and expansion.

Here we are and what a view it is:
Our horizons LIMITLESS...
Our future INFINITE...
And we ourselves,

UNIVERSAL.

PEOPLE to MARRY
"To unite, advance,
support and protect the Scientology religion and Scientologists
all parts of the world
so as to achieve the
aims of Scientology
as originated by
Ron Hubbard

We have arrived at a place that was unimaginable 25 years ago. It is a place we were never supposed to see, and certainly never to look back from. But here we are and what a view it is: Scientology Churches and Missions encircling this planet. LRH technologies at work in almost every land on Earth. Our horizons are limitless. Our future is infinite. And we ourselves are universal.

One might well inquire of those who never wanted us to arrive at this juncture or those who ask what we stand for as the IAS, "How did you spend the last 25 years in comparison to this?"

Having fought for every inch of ground up to 1984, Scientology held a tenuous presence in 39 nations. That is when the IAS came on the scene, and our banners now wave in 165 lands.

While wheels of justice may grind slowly, we have further fought and prevailed for landmark judgments in no less than 48 nations, and so secured the rights to advance, disseminate and protect LRH materials. At the same time, because of the IAS, we have paved the way to provide spiritual freedom by means of religious recognitions of Scientology. In 1984, only one nation recognized our religious nature; today it is 28 nations stretching from Australia to Zimbabwe, which of course includes the United States.

A timeline of our last 25 years against Freedom of Information laws gives a further view of what our presence means across this world. In 1984 barely seven nations had laws to keep governments clean, while today it is no less than 82. As for protecting populations against institutional abuse, a tally of the laws prohibiting mayhem, ECT, mutilation and drugging shows the world is now twice as safe since the birth of the IAS.

The whole point of an IAS that protects and advances Scientology is to stake out ground from which to advance LRH technologies. Over the last 25 years, the IAS has sponsored a fleet of social betterment footholds, now providing a tenfold increase in frontline Narconon, Applied Scholastics and The Way to Happiness delivery. These facilities in turn generate ground-level social betterment groups, and this world is now 30 times richer in these since 1984. Moreover, 25 years ago, those repairing their lives in such groups numbered 9.8 million—not too shabby for the day. But as of the IAS 25th Anniversary, there are now 119 million stepping out from the social betterment network, crime-free, drug-free, moral and literate.

However this does not say it all, because the IAS now also sponsors Fourth Dynamic Salvage Campaigns that reach tens of millions more: United for Human Rights, Operation Drug-Free World and Operation Planetary Calm. As a result, more truth is now circulated in a single year than in all previous years combined. This, in turn, brings even more people to our door as witnessed by the number of people visiting the IAS-sponsored Internet sites. "Internet" was not even a word back in 1984, but compare all incoming visitors since we first went online in 1995, and there have been more visitors in the last 12 months than in all previous 14 years combined.

Since the IAS began 25 years ago, the size, sweep and scope of SCIENTOLOGY HAS GROWN 25 TIMES to embrace this world with LRH Technology.

IAS sponsorship also makes it possible to present LRH Technology to like-minded organizations and governments of this world. With 22,000 community, city, state or federal groups and agencies now running with our programs, it is not just greater than all previous years combined, but 75 times anything imaginable back in 1984.

The real history lesson is this: It was none other than the IAS that finally won us the time and space to present the basic truths of Dianetics and Scientology. When you take the cumulative number of LRH books and lectures placed into hands up to 1984, then factor in the rate those titles are flying off the shelves since the advent of the Golden Age of Knowledge, the result is that the last 25 years are 27 times greater than the first 34 years and it continues to increase.

Even that doesn't say it all, because in 1984 Scientology was predominantly an English-speaking religion with only 16,000 pages of translated LRH scripture. In the last 25 years, this has been multiplied to a higher power, and as of the IAS 25th Anniversary, there are now four million pages of translated LRH materials. Even more than that, with translations now in 50 languages we are capable of reaching 90 percent of the world's population.

New IAS-sponsored facilities also now outstrip, outreach and outnumber the combined square footage comprising all of Scientology in 1984. Moreover, with the number of Groups, Missions and Orgs doubling in just the last five years, every other magic number ends in five: Since the IAS began 25 years ago, the size, sweep and scope of Scientology has grown 25 times to embrace this world with LRH Technology.

For the first time in all the eons, history and justice finally rhyme as we celebrate the 25th Anniversary of the IAS.

We have always triumphed over suppression—in Portland, in Spain, in Canada, Germany and the United States. Anywhere the future of Scientology has been threatened, the IAS has triumphed.

WHAT IT TOOK TO PAY THE PRICE OF FREEDOM

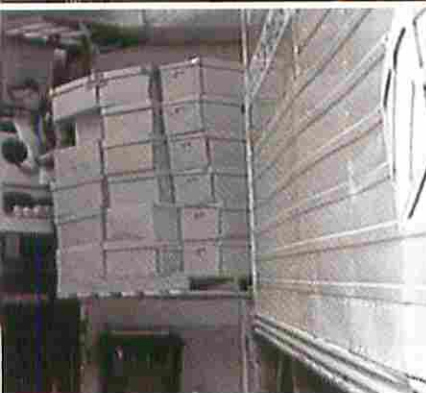

Winning against impossible odds, we paid the ultimate Price of Freedom that is the hallmark of the IAS.

As we celebrate 25 years of the IAS it is only appropriate we consider what it meant to be the IAS through the last quarter of a century. Scientologists have heard about impossible odds against a power elite and glimpsed the iconic imagery of courtrooms, Religious Freedom Marches and glorious victories.

On this Silver Anniversary of the IAS, it is important to remember those phrases were by no means overwrought. It is a time to remind ourselves of just how much we have overcome and how much ground we have gained. Even more, it is time to focus on what it takes to pay the ultimate Price of Freedom that is the hallmark of the IAS: “Constant alertness. Constant willingness to fight back.”

If those words are what brought us to where we now stand, they are also the words that will carry us forward through all the generations to come. Let us now consider what it took to get here and why the IAS 25th Anniversary is different from all other anniversaries. Because with it, we mark 25 years of IAS history, which is tantamount to 2,500 years in any other history book.

It is also the time to revisit October 7th, 1984, when we signed The Pledge to Mankind and essentially told the enemy, “We will meet you in the courtrooms. We will meet you in the streets. We will meet you on the airwaves and everywhere else where you need be met. And we will always emerge victorious.”

October 7, 1984, the IAS was formed at Saint Hill and The Pledge to Mankind was signed. At that time, we were that close to losing Scientology forever. The solution was the International Association of Scientologists.

We told the enemy, “We will meet you in the courtrooms. We will meet you in the streets. We will meet you on the airwaves and everywhere else where you need be met.

AND WE WILL ALWAYS EMERGE VICTORIOUS.”

While many have heard the stock phrases—vested interests with a secret agenda, the orchestrated trials for the final solution, the shyster attorneys, prejudiced judges, stacked juries and reporters on the take—our religion was imperiled and our Churches were on the brink with a very real prospect of losing Scientology forever. Honest to God, it was that close. That was 1984.

That is where Scientology stood 25 years ago when a few dozen assembled at Saint Hill to found the IAS.

What stood on the other side of the battle line was, firstly, a series of more than 60 “cookie-cutter” civil suits, all featuring the same cadre of witnesses. In fact, another often repeated expression of the day was “dog and pony show,” in which a plaintiff in one case was a witness in all others, until all the “Pinochios” had testified in a round robin fashion in each other’s cases.

So it continued, as we well knew it would, until one of them popped in Portland, Oregon. It wasn’t called a heresy trial for nothing. The charge was that TRs were brainwashing. The star witness was America’s foremost anti-religious psych. Her line of testimony literally ran, “Scientology presumes one may start, change and stop things, ergo Scientologists are brainwashed” because, “it’s awful hard to change certain things.”

While this may sound amusing now, nobody was laughing when the gavel finally hit the bench in Portland. It was a 39 million dollar judgment against the Church which might as well have been a billion dollars for all we could pay of it—and there were still 62 more cases to go.

Then in Canada came what was known as the “great raid” on our Church in Toronto. Better than a hundred constables arrived at the Church wearing flak jackets and bearing fire axes, sledgehammers and crowbars—as if any of it was needed, since the doors were unlocked. That they carted off truckloads of boxes primarily filled with preclear folders doesn’t even say it all, because this set a record as the single largest raid in Canadian history.

In Italy it was a totalitarian scenario where every Church in the land was simultaneously raided and summarily shut down and the staff were jailed.

In Spain, squads of police descended on an IAS assembly in Madrid, and arrested some 70 senior Scientologists, including the President of the International Church. They were taken to an 18th century prison known as “the dungeons.” Among the outrageous charges? That we were responsible for the “untimely demise” of Spanish dictator, Francisco Franco, in 1975. The trial judge could only be described as a lunatic and literally went on record to claim, we came from Venus, while all other “self-respecting” humans descended from Martians.

There was a whole lot more across Germany. There were seminars in Munich on how to recognize a Scientologist and prohibitions in Stuttgart on aiding, abetting or fraternizing with Scientologists and banning Scientology children from attending schools or joining the Boy Scouts. To keep Scientologists out of the workplace, there were ready-made “sect filters” by which employers could screen job applicants for Scientology connections. Reminiscent of the Third Reich, police bulletins exhorted citizens to expose Scientologists in their neighborhoods.

But for a real reincarnation of State Security there is the most extensive criminal investigation in the history of the United States: our 40-year war with the IRS. It all began when Richard M. Nixon put the Founding Church of Scientology on his Enemies List and passed that list to the IRS.

Attacking the Church became part of their DNA until the 1980s, when they issued subpoenas for virtually every piece of paper in every Church, summarily froze bank accounts of Church executives, targeted some 3,000 Scientologists for tax audits, most of which extended back into past lives, and compiled the largest American dossier on any one individual in history—someone Scientologists might be familiar with. Then again, they kept punching zeros on a calculator, until they figured we owed them somewhere in the neighborhood of a billion dollars, which might as well have been a “kajillion” dollars for all we could pay of it.

To complete the cast of characters, there was a religious hate group of deprogrammers, called the Cult Awareness Network (CAN).

ATEST TRIUMPH OVER OGY HISTORY.

Most of their board members had criminal records, but that hadn't stopped the IRS from giving them tax exemption so they could act as expert consultants on our case.

Finally, there was Interpol, which served as a conduit to disseminate false reports from America to law enforcement agencies in virtually every other nation on Earth, including Western and Eastern Europe, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, all of whom would then deny our religious status.

Total it all, and we truly are talking the end of Scientology as we know it. There was one upside: We knew it couldn't get any worse.

As we are the IAS today, so we were then, and so we come to where this story really went epic. It began with Scientology's first ever Religious Freedom Crusade in Portland, barely six months after the formation of the IAS. Nobody had seen anything like it. There were tens of thousands of people without a single incident or, as the judge noted, "The Scientologists even pick up their own trash." Moreover, after seeing tens of thousands of Scientologists day after day, that judge also knew we'd been railroaded. He not only ruled that the opposition's argument had been improper, but admitted he too had treated us with prejudice.

So it was, that the 39 million dollar judgment was thrown out—in 60 days. It wasn't just inconceivable, it was a judicial precedent that had never happened in history.

The courts finally disqualified the anti-religious psych from appearing as an expert witness in any court of law and

Above: The IAS-sponsored strategic Ideal Org in Madrid opened following the triumphant conclusion of our most protracted battle.

A host of countries recognize the religious nature of Scientology. The recent decision by the European Court of Human Rights affirms our religious rights in Russia and across all 27 member states of the European Union.

In Germany, 53 landmark decisions now support and protect Scientologists. In Italy, our victory defines what legally classifies as a religious movement throughout all of Europe. And in Spain, her peers at the American Psychological Association condemned her brainwashing theories. The rest of the cookie-cutter civil suits were swept from the courts in 18 months, likewise unheard of in annals of American law.

THE CHURCH OF SCIENTOLOGY HAS FULL RELIGIOUS RECOGNITION.

The largest raid in Canadian history was declared patently illegal and all seized documents were returned to the Church.

In response to the simultaneous shutdown of all Italian Churches, we launched Religious Freedom Crusades in Europe. The case not only went to the Italian Supreme Court, but their decision is the defining statement on what legally classifies as a religious movement across all of Europe today.

While the case in Spain dragged through the courts for more than a decade, the decision was unanimous: Total vindication of all those charged. The court ruled, "We absolve without reservation." It was only the beginning, because an IAS-sponsored Ideal Org now stands in Madrid, the seat of Spanish government. And in its wake came another court decision granting full religious recognition to Scientology.

In Germany, 53 landmark decisions now support and protect German Scientologists.

While as for the United States Internal Revenue Service, it was headline news when 150 Scientology Churches and related organizations were fully recognized as tax-exempt in 1993.

Then the mop-up duty began. First was the timely demise of CAN who aren't just history, no one even remembers them. On an international basis, the flow of lies from Interpol was ended. In the wake of peace with the IRS, and by order of Interpol's Secretary General, Interpol was prohibited from ever investigating Scientology again. To clean up their own false reports, Interpol Headquarters even distributed What Is Scientology? to every one of their field offices planetwide.

Showing just how far we've come since 1984, Russia just joined the list of the 28 governments who recognize the religious nature of Scientology. A unanimous decision by the European Court of Human Rights set an all-time precedent of international law by affirming our religious rights in Russia which is binding across all 27 member states of the European Union.

That is what it has meant for 25 years, when we proclaim, now and forever, we are the IAS!

THE REASON WE FOUGHT OUR BATTLES

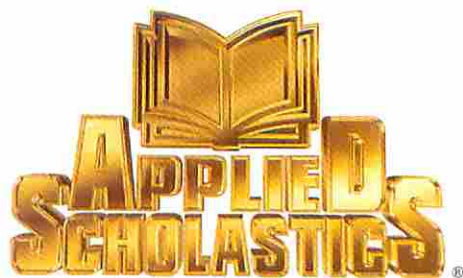

Any victory is for naught if one fails to capitalize on it, which in our case meant getting LRH Technology out. It is a task that demanded just as much fortitude as it took to triumph over all but impossible odds and was at least as compelling, for the only reason we ever fought our battles was to bring LRH Technology to the world. Even in the heat of those battles, we always worked to advance LRH Tech to the front lines of this planet.

In the wake of our victories across the United States and Europe, greater IAS resources could suddenly be directed to overcoming the real war: Study Technology to vanquish illiteracy; Drug Rehabilitation Technology to handle addiction and The Way to Happiness to turn the tide on immorality.

Then, too, the IAS could provide the resources to establish worldwide headquarters from which to export those technologies at whole new orders of magnitude.

Vanquishing illiteracy:

Applied Scholastics Spanish Lake Campus

Applied Scholastics has brought LRH Study Technology to thousands of students and teachers from Zimbabwe to the Philippines to Nigeria.

The seeds of LRH Study Technology had long been planted in places like Malaysia, India and Nepal, as well as Education Alive in South Africa. With grants from the IAS, pioneering Scientologists took the tech to Zimbabwe, The Gambia and even Mainland China.

But all the while it was clear much more was needed. Therefore in 2003, with IAS support, the International Study Technology Training Campus LRH had long envisioned was established. Applied Scholastics Spanish Lake, located just outside of St. Louis, Missouri, is a truly worldwide hub for learning. In that capacity, it serves as both a model of Study Technology and a training college for educators world over who, in turn, implement the technology through their own school systems.

Most immediately after the grand opening, its presence was felt regionally, in places such as Tennessee, where a high school was on what was called the critical list. If teachers couldn't raise grade point averages by semester end, the school would lose its federal funding. With the assistance of Applied Scholastics, the school not only came off the critical list, it became the city's model school with kids leaping two to three semester grades in barely 12 weeks. The next to be academically resuscitated through Applied Scholastics intervention was a middle school in Louisiana, which had an immediate nine percent scholastic improvement and a pass on the State Standards Test. With results like that, it was no surprise that Applied Scholastics received its own accreditation, whereby Spanish Lake tutors could salvage any school in any state with full federal funding.

As Applied Scholastics reached out to help schools, teachers and professors from across the globe made the pilgrimage to Spanish Lake to be trained on LRH Study Technology. On their return to their homelands, the tech rippled out country by country. In Jamaica, officials promptly trained 200 instructors from 100 schools, who then elevated test scores 27 percent. In Puerto Rico, graduates trained another 3,500 instructors in 80 public schools. In Colombia, those returning from Spanish Lake trained another 142 teachers and Study Tech was included in the National Plan for Development and signed into law. Mexican Applied Scholastics graduates raised test scores 11 percent above all national norms and the Minister of Education hosted the graduation. And in the Philippines, a Spanish Lake team trained 1,200 teachers, who upon returning to their schools brought Study Tech to 92,000 students.

While it has been said that the Third World is blocked by education problems, there is a solution as evidenced by Nigeria. More than 5,000 teachers have now been trained in Study Technology and they in turn have spread it across 10 Nigerian states to more than 729,000 students in all.

Since the IAS sponsorship of Applied Scholastics International, LRH Study Technology has now been used across 74 nations to the benefit of 28 million students.

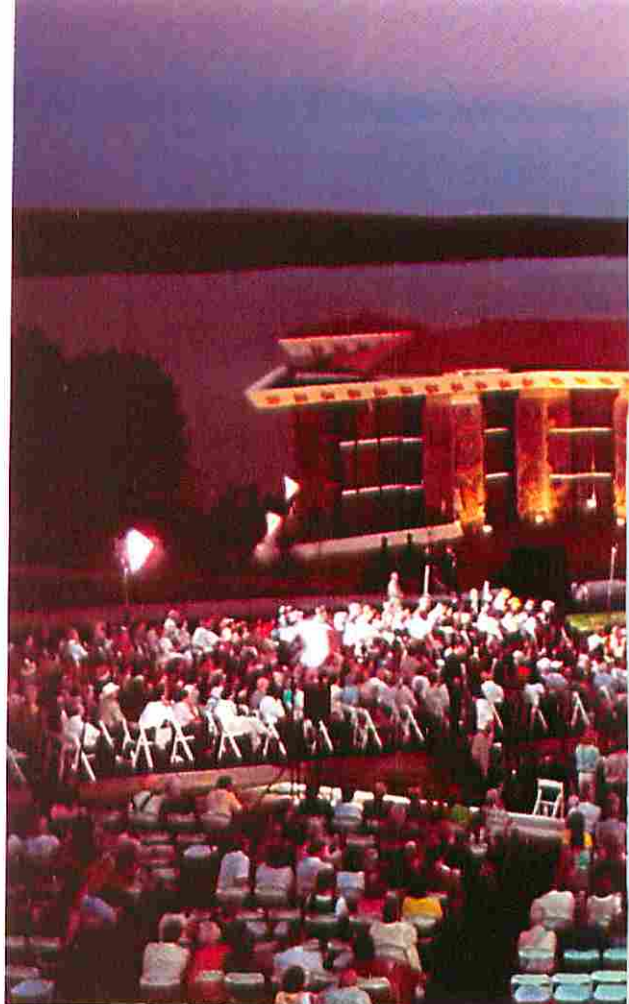

NARCONON ARROWHEAD: SALVAGING LIVES FROM THE SCOURGE OF DRUGS

Narconon had been battling the drug problem for decades—in the 70s, 80s and 90s—but was still dependant on the lone graduates who wanted to bring the same freedom to others. Hence the need for a worldwide center to train professionals who would, in turn, open and man Narconons everywhere.

Thanks to the IAS, in 2001 that became a reality with the opening of Narconon Arrowhead. Located on 256 lakeside acres in Oklahoma, it is fully accredited, with residential facilities for 230 students and an alumni list of trained Rehabilitation Specialists from as far afield as Bulgaria, Egypt, Macedonia, Estonia, Kenya, Jordan and the Niger Delta.

It also rightly boasts an unmatched success rate and LRH Drug Rehabilitation Technology is now at work in 14 governments. But when Narconon Arrowhead went into operation as a “generation plant” it meant bringing LRH Technology everywhere, enabling worldwide expansion of the Narconon network. Facilities have since opened across the globe from South Africa to Central America, Australia to the Commonwealth of Independent States and all across the US, Canada, South America, Europe, the United Kingdom and into the Middle East.

Combine it all, and Narconon is now the largest private rehabilitation organization on Earth with 185 centers in 47 nations salvaging lives from the scourge of drugs.

With the opening of Narconon Arrowhead, training of drug rehabilitation specialists became a reality. They opened new Narconons in Italy, Macedonia, England, Colombia and the United States.

THE WAY TO HAPPINESS FOUNDATION: TURNING THE TIDE ON IMMORALITY

There is an equally epic tale to be told about The Way to Happiness, which starts in the 1980s with a pioneering push into places like Inglewood, East Hollywood and South Central LA where, to cite just one example of results, gangs started cleaning up graffiti. There were also booklets wending their way into India, Russia and Kazakhstan, while with IAS support the first Criminon programs expanded with The Way to Happiness as the backbone.

But it was obvious that something else was needed: an International Way to Happiness headquarters. Funded by the IAS, it opened in 2004. In addition to being a central emanation and coordination point for Way to Happiness groups the world over, it is also integral to grassroots dissemination. For that reason it is equipped with print-on-demand capabilities to fulfill LRH's original intention that people make the booklet their own and so pass copies on to others in a steady stream. Literally thousands of individuals, organizations and government offices have personalized their copies of The Way to Happiness and distributed them to their employees, customers, students, friends and business associates.

With IAS support, the booklet has also been funneled into crisis zones, including three million copies across Palestinian territories in both Hebrew and Arabic. Still more have gone into Pakistan, Mexico, Nigeria and the Congo.

But if the booklet was proving itself in planetary hot-spots, its use in another arena became utterly pervasive. It had long been the backbone of Criminon, but it now was the spearhead into prisons such as the famed supermax facility at Leeuwkoop. Previously the third most violent facility in South Africa, cell block assaults fell to zero after Criminon implementation.

In Panama City's notorious women's compound, a 40 percent violence index immediately plunged to zero.

The program was implemented in many US prisons and has spread across entire nations. With Criminon in Israeli prisons, recidivism dropped to zero. Criminon has carte blanche to work in any Pakistani prison and blanket approval for all 73 Nepalese facilities. Criminon now spans five Thai prisons and has a corps of 37 graduate trained supervisors. Finally, it has been adopted across all Indonesian prisons and nearly half of all graduates now qualify for early release.

With The Way to Happiness, we affirm that no human being is beyond redemption. Since the IAS sponsorship of The Way to Happiness International, self-respect has been restored to 100,000 inmates across 35 nations, while The Way to Happiness has been placed into the hands of more than 82 million world over!

The Way to Happiness Foundation International has spearheaded widespread distribution of the booklet in the society.

VOLUNTEER MINISTERS: FIRST AID FOR THE WORLD

With the message that Something Can Be Done About It, Volunteer Ministers bring help any time, anywhere.

No matter our victories over oppression and subsequent advance across the globe, there is something else that in and of itself defines us as the IAS. It is where we took it upon ourselves to extend the gift of Scientology anywhere and everywhere. Synonymous with the Wake-up Call and rightly described as our most embraceive crusade, it is just as correctly characterized as spiritual first aid and where we field the largest independent relief force on Earth. This crusade reminds us that history is little more than a long succession of tragedies culminating in a great dust heap unless one takes these words from LRH to heart, "If one does not like the crime, cruelty, injustice and violence of this society, he can do something about it. He can become a Volunteer Minister and help civilize it, bring it conscience and kindness and love and freedom from travail by instilling into it trust, decency, honesty and tolerance."

There were signs of this crusade's potential throughout the 1980s and 1990s, but the defining moment was Manhattan, September 11th, 2001. The first assists went to exhausted police and firefighters while VMs next provided whatever was needed and wanted, including a cold drink and hot meal dispensary called the Freedom Café, soon to become a VM hallmark. At Ground Zero VMs were finally the only civilian volunteer force allowed past the barricades and were officially commended by both the New York Police Department and Fire Department.

It was at this point that the Volunteer Minister program coalesced into a cause, for if 9/11 represented the worst of times and places, it also represented how rapidly the curtain could come down anywhere and everywhere. Whether it is called emergency triage, or otherwise, the Volunteer Minister program is and will forever be our frontline movement to shore up this civilization until we can provide ultimate freedom.

Following 9/11, VMs provided help on an increasingly global scale—in the Congo, on the flooded banks of the Danube, after the “11-M” bombings in Madrid in March of 2004 and in the wake of Florida’s Hurricane Charley to name a few.

At the end of 2004, the Indian Ocean Tsunami hit Thailand, Sri Lanka, Indonesia and India and more than 500 VMs from 26 nations provided on-site training, material support and one-on-one assists to nearly half a million. From that point forward, the tag line heard in emergency response circles was, “We need those guys in the yellow shirts who did the Tsunami.”

VMs were on the scene at London’s “7/7” bombings. And when Katrina, the fifth deadliest hurricane in United States history, broke levees in New Orleans, more than 900 VMs rapidly hit the ground to run logistics for emergency agencies and provide help to the survivors. And while VMs were awarded medals for exemplary service, the service commendation that counted most is the one that cites 70,000 aided, assisted or trained.

When the Pakistan quake of 2005, called “The Great One,” struck, Karachi and Islamabad VM teams were on the scene to deliver 7,000 assists and to train more than 3,000 villagers. VMs ran logistics with the Red Cross following Australia’s Cyclone Larry, provided help at the devastating flood in Mozambique and in the aftermath of Peru’s 8.0 earthquake.

They delivered assists to shrapnel victims in emergency wards after India’s Mumbai Terrorist Attack of 2008 and trained 900 medical personnel to do likewise.

The first VM teams to penetrate the Bamboo Curtain and enter Mainland China came in response to the Sichuan earthquake. Wearing the mandatory orange jackets signifying a government sanctioned rescue brigade, they delivered pure LRH Tech. Italy’s 204 VM emergency specialists also suited up in orange in their capacity as certified Civil Protection units. As such, they ran paramedical support in L’Aquila, Italy’s deadliest earthquake in three decades.

Tampa Volunteer Ministers pitch their VM tent at fairs and parks to provide LRH Technology.

At 171 major disaster sites, across 52 nations, Volunteer Ministers helped more than 900,000 souls in dire need, showing that no matter what, no matter where, something can be done about it.

Waiting for disaster to strike is an invitation to disaster. It leaves populations unprepared by letting the fuse slowly burn and failing to fix the small disasters before they trigger big ones. That is the greater meaning of the IAS-sponsored Volunteer Minister Crusade, inaugurated in response to the Wake-up Call.

In the aftermath of 9/11 the IAS sponsored Org and Continental Cavalcades to extend help to geographic zones surrounding Scientology Churches. Since then, cavalcades have traveled to an average of 1,000 sites a year across five continents to provide succor and assistance in 15 languages. Their 1,300 square-foot tri-peaked marquees are equipped with seminar spaces to train people on the full body of technology contained in The Scientology Handbook. Through this program, Org and Continental Cavalcades reach out beyond the walls of Scientology Churches to help everyday people overcome everyday disasters. In just this year they helped more than 1.3 million people with LRH Tech.

In terms of distance and extending a helping hand, nothing surpasses the IAS-sponsored Goodwill, Pioneer and Extreme Tours and the Virtual Cavalcade.

The Trans-Siberian Goodwill Tour helps shore up remnants of the old Soviet infrastructure. Industries along its route were among the first to crumble when the iron curtain fell, therefore many coming to VM seminars are unemployed from disused Soviet weapon factories and failed collectives. Life is tough beyond the Urals and people need all the tech they can get, which is why the Goodwill Tour traveled 12,000 miles across seemingly endless Russian Steppes.

The Eastern European Goodwill Tour fortifies communities coming back to life after 60 odd years of communism. Attending seminars are city managers and business people who want the Tone Scale and Tools for the Workplace, educators who want LRH Study Tech and Red Cross volunteers who had heard of Scientology assists, but now want the whole handbook. In response, the Eastern European Tour has now visited 12 cities and traveled more than 7,000 miles.

Legendary in the Pacific, the Southeast Asian Pioneer Tour works the Typhoon Alley up and down the Philippines. They consequently see many military personnel, civil defense groups and heavy weather Air Force units, but also visit high schools and nursing colleges and train police cadets. The tour has established 43 new VM Groups to carry on the work.

The Indian subcontinent is a world unto itself. The big tri-peak VM tents have already planted stakes across some 28,000 miles and VMs see a lot of nurses, paramedical personnel and schoolteachers, as well as fire brigades and border patrols. They have also trained better than 3,000 new professionals across India's social architecture, helping them to succeed as the country rapidly emerges into the 21st century.

Trailing a white wake along the Tropic of Capricorn, the South Pacific VM Goodwill Tour visits colleges, ministries, schools and churches on the rarely trammelled shores of South Pacific islands. In their 11,000 miles of travel, VMs dotted these islands with some 70 new groups.

The South American Goodwill Tour has traversed more than 10,000 miles across Brazil and Argentina. Since the military is the backbone of these nations, VMs provide training to police commanders and officers of the police, the armies, civil defense personnel and even squad leaders from anti-insurgent shock police.

The African Goodwill Tour has crisscrossed the whole continental belly with stops at lone missionary camps, villages and regimental outposts along disputed tribal lands. They also bring LRH Tech to primary, secondary and upper schools. They have helped and trained more than 60,000 people who may well be the ones to lead the way to the new civilization for which Africa is destined.

Also in Africa is the Extreme Pioneer Tour which has traveled across more than 4,000 miles of villages training Red Cross presidents, police commanders, mayors, teachers and even seminary students bound for grassland parishes.

In another time zone entirely is the Outback Extreme Pioneer Tour traveling by plane or caravan across Australia's Dreamtime country. It has now covered 5,400 miles in one of the oldest unbroken cultures on Earth.

Even further afield is the Extreme Pioneer Tour up the Amazon, which has now plied 10,000 miles of what is alternately known as Green Hell or the ecological heart of this planet. VMs lay down a support system of LRH Tech along a thin social infrastructure in river police stations, fire brigades, schools, hospitals and deeper still into the villages.

While VM tours go to the ends of the Earth, the VM Virtual Cavalcade travels time and space as well. It provides all 19 of The Scientology Handbook courses online, thereby stretching a Volunteer Minister lifeline across 170 nations, including Afghanistan, Algeria, Mongolia, Vietnam, Iraq and even Iran.

In total, since the first flash of yellow in the rubble of Ground Zero, there are now 203,000 Volunteer Ministers who have provided help in more than 5,000 zones of greatest need, while traveling over 8.5 million miles and assisting better than 10 million beings. All the while they have shown the world that Something Can Be Done About It.

While IAS-sponsored Volunteer Minister Goodwill Tours and Extreme Pioneer Tours travel the world, the VM Virtual Cavalcade makes LRH Tech available to anyone, anywhere, any time at www.volunteerministers.org.

DAUNTLESS

IAS crusader

IAS Freedom Medal Winner 2009
David Pomeranz epitomizes what a dedicated member of the IAS can accomplish the world over.

PORTLAND, 1985

STUTTGART, 1996

BERLIN, 1997

LOS ANGELES, 1998

According to legends of old, there once was a class of bards who could crack castle walls with their songs, who could raise the winds with their rhymes and so uplift the hearts of people so that they could triumph over any odds.

But that was a long, long time ago and everyone knows you can't depend on a minstrel anymore. Or can you? Because in 1984 when the chips were down and the odds were all but impossible, there was indeed someone who stepped forth to uplift the hearts of Scientologists with song.

David Pomeranz is a multiplatinum songwriter, recording artist and performer. He provided hits for the likes of John Denver, Cliff Richard and Barry Manilow, shared a stage with Rod Stewart, The Doors and Billy Joel and filled halls from the Kennedy Center and Hollywood Bowl to Moscow's Olympic Stadium.

More to the point, David wanted the whole world to know about Scientology and for the last 25 years he's been a dauntless IAS Crusader. As David said, "When I got that Call to Arms for Religious Freedom I knew that I needed to be there, needed to be in the front and I needed to wave my proverbial musical flag on behalf of religious freedom and make a damn difference."

The clarion call came from Portland, Oregon, in May 1985. On a makeshift stage at the Portland Downs, David sang a song entitled "Soldiers of the Heart." It's got a line about standing together with a power that's been renewed and it became a kind of anthem. Which, when coupled with voices from 10,000 others, became the peal of thunderous victory that would always reverberate in IAS history.

He was also there for the Freedom Crusades of 1986: At the candlelight vigil in Los Angeles, on the steps of City Hall in San Francisco and the Capitol Mall in Sacramento. By which point, everyone knew that David Pomeranz line about soldiers of the heart who kept fighting

'til they filled this world with light.

If David had lit the torch for freedom in a nation that understood that word, he next started a wildfire in a land that had only known suppression. It was all about raising Russia's iron curtain for a Book One premiere. The opening act was a duo with Alexander Malinin from Moscow's rock underground. They played a Pomeranz piece called "Faraway Lands" and it instantly went red hot on Russian airwaves. As the first American-Soviet collaborations in rock history, it likewise played all over ABC, MTV, Entertainment Tonight and the East-West Goodwill Games.

But the real showstopper came in 1993 when David worked the Kremlin to unveil the first Russian edition of Dianetics. Which is how upwards of 50 million Soviet viewers first tuned in to Book One and another reason why they'll tell you, "It was rock-and-roll that finally brought the curtain down."

The strategy was simple. Knowing full well a single individual could only do so much, David would rally the multitudes—and make all things possible. It began with another classic Pomeranz tune—this one performed on behalf of human rights. He called it "Invisible Criminals," and closed it out with a phrase that played wherever the Citizens Commission on Human Rights assembled: To expose the abuse, to give victims a voice and otherwise inform the psychs they weren't invisible anymore!

Then it was back on the bill for religious freedom—this time with a tune entitled "It's in Every One of Us." It had a line about a cast of thousands, all of whom knew the truth, and it played at every European march through the 1990s: In defiance of core suppression in Berlin, to inspire and galvanize still more in Frankfurt, to help unveil a new Church in Hamburg, all while supporting Freedom marathon runners in Athens, emboldening 7,000 more for religious rights in Paris and to forever stand on the global stage of the IAS in support of the Scientology religion!

MANILA MISSION, 2004

MANILA VM OPENING, 2007

PHILIPPINE DRUG ENFORCEMENT AGENCY, 2008

If David had protected and supported in the name of the IAS, he still had another inspiring piece in his repertoire. This one was entitled “Advance” and it was all about opening a whole new land to LRH Tech.

His target audience was half-a-million Filipinos who already knew the words to all of his hits from the 80s. They were waiting at the gates when he landed in Manila and when his Born For You LP hit the racks, it was the biggest selling album in Philippine history, going platinum ten times over.

But it was his next performance that left the most indelible impression. Because this was the show where he brought on LRH Technology to address what ruined so many Filipino lives.

His first act was another duet, this time with the National Red Cross Secretary General. The Red Cross had a network of shelters for the street kids yet she needed all the help she could get, what with 75,000 abandoned children in Manila alone. But David had The Way to Happiness booklet and was more than willing to lend his name and support to whatever program the Red Cross wished. Whereupon some 40,000 copies were funneling through Red Cross Learning Centers, while the Secretary General read the precepts on the radio to everyone else across Manila.

Then there was David’s performance at the Philippine Drug Enforcement Agency. They’d been working prevention problems without success for decades, so he took the mike to introduce Narconon drug education technology which then reached some 17,000 at-risk kids. But if David was next before an assembly of national Philippine press to accept a humanitarian recognition on behalf of LRH, that was also the stage from which he presented the rest of LRH’s Technology.

At which point, with LRH Tech permeating society, David brought on the whole “symphony”—cutting the ribbon on the first Manila Mission, treading the boards for Dianetics to tens of thousands of fans through a two-day stint in the malls, saturating prime-time news for 15 minutes at a clip, while simultaneously scoring full-page spreads in dailies.

Until, through it all, David had paved the way for Total Freedom—helping to secure full religious recognition in the Philippines!

CCHR, 2006

YOUTH FOR HUMAN RIGHTS, 2008

If that was David opening a nation after 25 years of IAS crusading, there was nowhere to go but everywhere else: On behalf of new Ideal Orgs in 16 nations from New York and Nashville to Düsseldorf and Berlin, on behalf of Human Rights and a Drug-Free World, and again in Manila on behalf of the first Volunteer Ministers Cavalcade.

And so it went on behalf of Flag, the Freewinds and over and over for the IAS—all while continuing to stand in the spotlight for the greater crusade until he's now brought word of LRH Technology to half-a-billion people!

Twenty-five years ago, David Pomeranz stepped on a stage to support the Scientology religion. And never once failing to do just that, he has come to epitomize what a dedicated member of the IAS can accomplish world over.

DAVID POMERANZ IAS FREEDOM MEDAL WINNER 2009

There is no greater honor in the world than to receive this award in this place, at this time, from this group. I am proud to be part of a group dedicated to a future where regard for one's fellow man counts for something, where art doesn't degrade but inspires and reminds people of the exalted and beautiful beings that they are.

I feel we are standing at the very center of the universe. We have the actual wherewithal in our hands right this minute to dispel all the pain and suffering Man has endured for eons. To ignore the opportunity to share it would be unthinkable. It is my privilege and duty to carry the torch of the IAS and do everything in my power to ensure that LRH's Tech will be here for my children's children and all generations to follow.

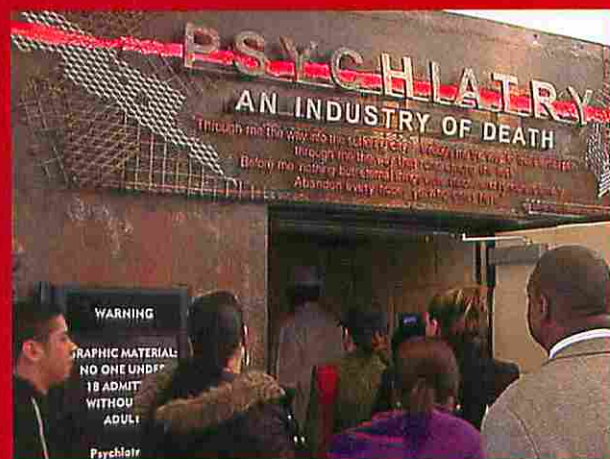

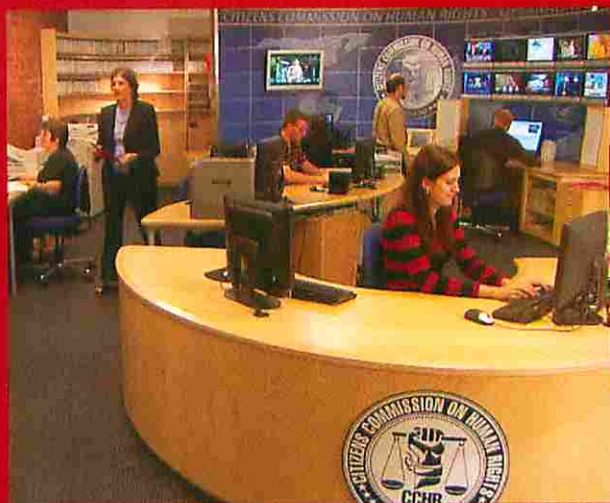

We have some glorious and adventurous times ahead of us, my friends, and you can be sure that I will continue to march alongside you every step of the way.

Thank you to the master artist of all, LRH, who knew that life itself is our greatest work of art.

GUARANTEEING THE MOST BASIC OF HUMAN RIGHTS

The IAS sponsors the Citizens Commission on Human Rights and its mission to end psychiatric criminality and abuse.

The international headquarters of the Citizens Commission on Human Rights, and the Psychiatry: An Industry of Death Museum, were funded by grants from the IAS.

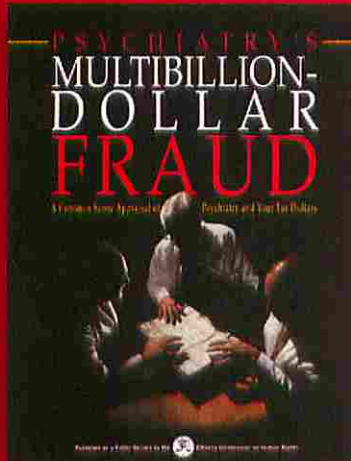

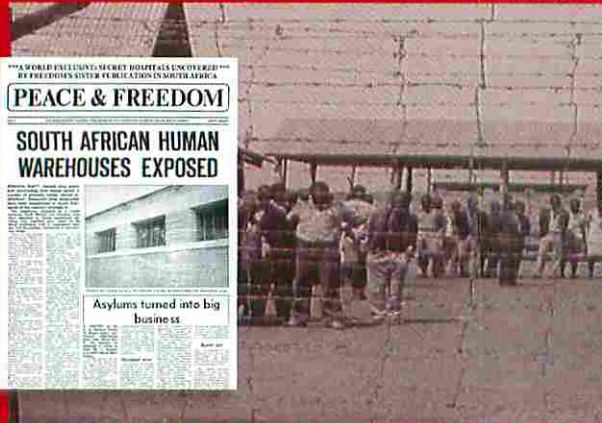

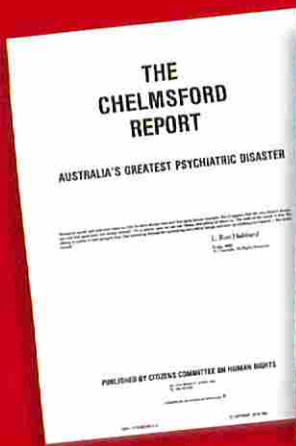

Another crusade the IAS embraced by necessity a long time ago is one that addresses an evil so unmitigated, even the most articulate have trouble expressing outrage. It bears upon the most fundamental of human rights, beginning with the right to life, the right to think, the right to feel and the right to be free. It can turn the most democratic society into a Brave New World where human emotions are treated with drugs. And if that weren't enough, they now target children. It is inhuman and arouses such passions as wrath, rage and fury.

As a word on what originally fueled this indignation, let us not forget that every assault on Dianetics and Scientology was initially incited by psychiatry. So in the act of defending ourselves, Scientology came to know them like nobody else. That history is legend: LRH exposing their planned Siberia USA in the 1950s, their mind-control experiments of the 1960s and their role in psychedelicizing the Western world.

Then there's what continued to fuel the indignation beyond the formation of the IAS. While the psychs were still working us over in the courts, this is what their rap sheet looked like as of 1984: Nearly 5,000 patients died in United States psychiatric wards. And psychs were also molesting and raping with wild abandon for there wasn't a single law prohibiting psychiatric sexual abuse.

There wasn't a chance of closing psychiatric institutions for patient abuse, while by 1984 only a single warning label had graced a psychiatric drug and less than 20 psychs had ever lost a license to practice.

The first landmark IAS-sponsored investigation of psychiatric abuse uncovered the horrors of "deep sleep therapy" in a psych hospital in Chelmsford, Australia, and resulted in its permanent closure. Exposés of apartheid-era psychiatric abuse opened the door to further investigations of psychiatric crimes in South Africa. IAS-sponsored CCHR publications have provided authorities with documentation of psychiatric fraud and criminality.

Shortly after the IAS was formed, grants were provided to the Citizens Commission on Human Rights. One of the first landmark CCHR investigations focused on a psych facility in Australia known as Chelmsford.

All anyone knew of what went on was that a psych named Harry Bailey had a "novel" kind of treatment. Acting on a few complaints from patients and an outraged nurse, CCHR soon uncovered that patients were being subjected to "deep sleep therapy"—a combination drug-induced coma plus electroshock with sometimes up to 24 separate jolts a week at 400 volts a shot.

That a lot of people never awoke was really "no big deal" as psychs swept those kinds of messes under the carpet all the time. But with IAS support, this time CCHR had the power to spotlight it in the public eye with 2,500 copies of a Special Chelmsford Report later flanked by a Freedom exposé.

CCHR's actions triggered a Royal Commission Inquiry that ran for two years and what followed were 183 documented deaths and 977 impaired—all directly linked to Chelmsford treatment.

There were also ten additional government inquiries, the formation of a Health Complaint Unit to investigate psych crimes, the first-ever cash compensation for survivors of psychiatric crime, the banning of deep sleep treatment forever and the permanent closure of Chelmsford hospital.

If Chelmsford was the first landmark victory, the next was a rude awakening for what psychiatry represented as a racist institution. For this reminds us psychiatrists were the original architects of Nazi horror and returns us to South Africa where once stood a full-blown psychiatric concentration camp. Originally exposed in a 1976 Freedom, it housed some 10,000 Black Africans and specialized in "occupational therapy."

More than 89,000 people have toured the Psychiatry: An Industry of Death Museum at CCHR International Headquarters in Los Angeles, where they learn of psychiatry's sordid history of human rights abuse.

Twenty-five years ago only a single warning label had graced a psychiatric drug. But not so in 2009. There are 34 warnings just this year.

Meaning, patients were farmed out as slave labor to manufacture coat hangers, hairbrushes and doormats—at a tidy profit to the psych hospitals. A then-apartheid government banned any further reporting of psychiatric abuse. But when that government fell, there came the day of reconciliation. For, if the architects of apartheid and the camps were never exposed, it could well happen again.

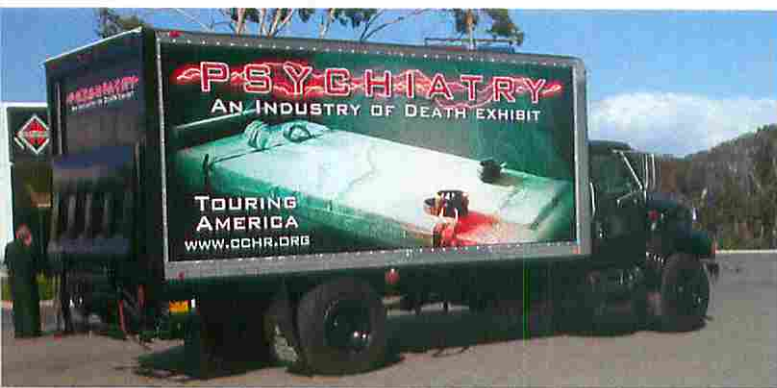

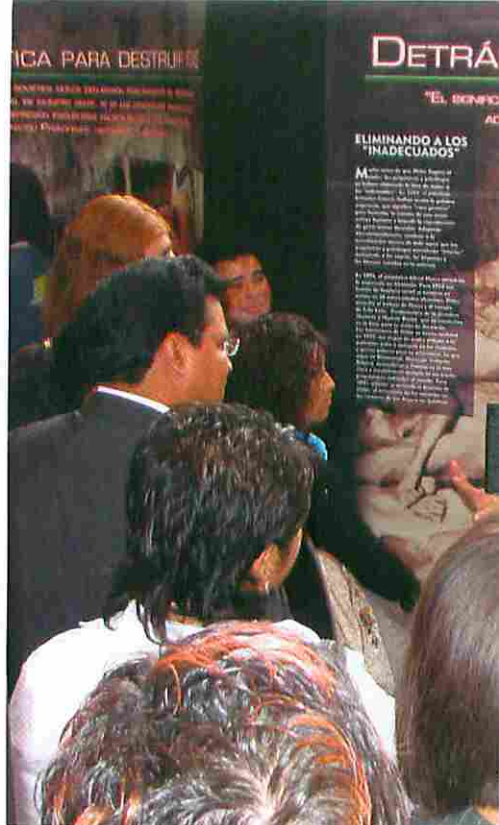

Hence, when a post-apartheid South African government enacted its Truth and Reconciliation Commission, there appeared an IAS-sponsored delegation armed with an 85-page white paper entitled, “The Tragedy of Psychiatry: Creating Apartheid.”

It demanded South Africa demolish every vestige of those camps, ban all restrictions on reporting psych abuse, enact investigations on every psych facility and force psychs to admit they deliberately skewed studies in support of white supremacist claims that Blacks were inferior. That oppressive 1976 Mental Health Act was repealed, allowing any citizen to investigate and report on psychiatry so they could never conceal their crimes again.

What ultimately evolved into a key CCHR strategy is where CCHR exposes the fraud of psychiatric institutions. The state-run mental institutions had proved themselves not too profitable and psychiatrists had to justify the size of their salary when it was coming from taxpayer funds. At which point CCHR began tracking the American giants of franchise psychiatric treatment. By all available evidence, they were scamming the United States healthcare system and using bounty hunters to lasso patients. Said patients, mostly kids and senior citizens, were held for 30 days until their insurance ran dry whereupon previously manic depressives, psychotics and schizophrenics were “miraculously” cured and discharged. But that’s when CCHR connected with Colorado Representative Pat Schroeder who raised a great hue and cry.

The largest was simultaneously raided by the FBI, US Treasury, Department of Defense

Just this year Industry of Death Traveling Exhibits have toured across 250,000 miles to 789 cities and towns educating and enraging 638,000 visitors.

and the Postal Service. Thanks to CCHR publications and exposés on psych fraud, law enforcement had no problem deciphering the “creative accounting” of the seized records.

And so it was that America’s largest psych chains collapsed with thunderous fines, criminal prosecution and a torrential rain of headlines—all 44 facilities closed down.

Texas closed down another ten facilities and Italy closed a full 97. With 164 psych facilities shut down, institutional psychiatry’s immunity had been broken for the first time in a hundred years.

Psychiatry then came to ask the question: Why risk Scientologists nailing you for imprisoning and maiming a few poor souls when you can rake in billions by convincing the whole world they’re crazy? All of which is to say, why not make every emotion a disease and market psychotropic drugs to “cure” them? While just for good measure, you’ve also got a new untapped market that would last a lifetime.

No matter what strides had been made by CCHR in curbing mental health abuses, the psychs had billions at stake and weren’t about to walk away. Hence the need to escalate the effort which is when the IAS sponsored a worldwide CCHR headquarters in Los Angeles in 2001 which was followed by the inauguration of the Psychiatry: An Industry of Death Museum in 2005.

The Industry of Death Museum also served as the template for traveling exhibits with each an accordion version of the museum and emissary of CCHR.

This year’s Industry of Death Traveling Exhibits toured across the world. Many, not coincidentally, also coinciding with “Mental Health” conventions and conferences. To date they have traveled across 250,000 miles to 789 cities and towns, all while educating and enraging 638,000 visitors.

Since the early 1990s a large number of psychiatric institutions have closed their doors. The last state psych hospital in Modeled on the Psychiatry: An Industry of Death Museum at CCHR headquarters, traveling exhibits take the truth about psychiatry to city after city.

Pennsylvania's Allegheny County, which has been drugging, maiming and electroshocking patients since 1893 is now dead and gone.

The Behavioral Health Unit in New Orleans, Louisiana, was only up and running six months before corporate heads pulled the plug for want of patients, want of cash and want of anyone who wanted to work there.

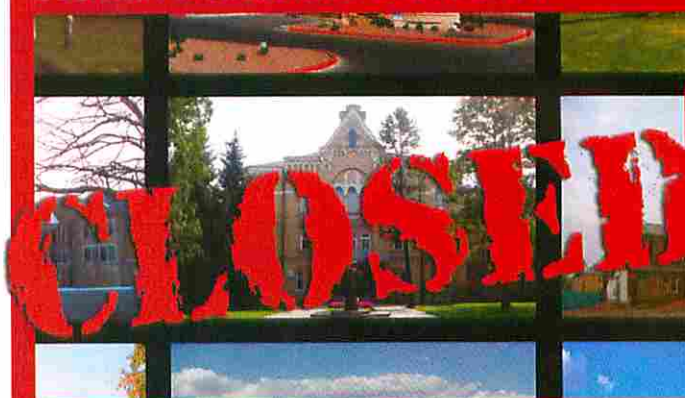

In New York, a psychiatric cash-flow crunch has wiped out 85,000 beds statewide. The story was repeated at Tennessee's Moccasin Bend Mental Health Center, two just closed in Michigan, five in New Hampshire, four in South Carolina and seven more in Ohio—all because legislators pulled the plug on psychiatric funding machines.

All told, it's more than 3,500 psych institutions now dead and gone for good!

CCHR's Legislation Units expose pro-psychiatric measures and support anti-psych laws. Factually, they save lives by the millions.

What gave old-line Russian psychiatry its clout was a Soviet statute allowing psychs to arbitrarily incarcerate citizens for indefinite periods of time. CCHR Russia had targeted that statute for decades and as of this February, the right case hit the Constitutional Court and psychs can't touch any Russian without due process.

Italy's version of a Brave New Psychiatric World included screening for kids in every Italian school. But thanks to CCHR exposure of its dangers, ADHD testing has now been ordered stopped in Italy. Mexico just enacted law prohibiting giving psych drugs to kids without informed consent. Meaning no more coercing parents, no more expelling kids if parents refuse and no more promoting psych drugs on campus.

Texas, California and Missouri psych bills likewise have gone up in flames.

In all, what CCHR legislative action has spelled for psych jobs, psych plans, psych paychecks and budgets is 116 legislative bills up in smoke.

Twenty-five years ago only a single warning label had graced a psychiatric drug. But not so in 2009. There are 34 warnings just this year and pharmaceuticals are starting to feel it. There's nowhere to run and nowhere to hide—not with IAS-sponsored CCHR public service announcements on the Discovery Health Channel, Sci-Fi Channel—not with mailings of Making a Killing documentaries to 144,000 med students, physicians, malpractice and personal injury attorneys—not with visitors logging on to www.cchr.org to view the documentary from 214 nations and simultaneous saturation across five continents to take home six international awards for documentary excellence.

All combined, it's nearly a billion people now on the receiving end of our messages, 24 billion dollars out of psychiatric hands and into public coffers and three million saved from psychiatric drugging, maiming and abuse.

THE MARKETING OF MADNESS

From the makers of the award-winning documentary Making a Killing: The Untold Story of Psychotropic Drugging, comes a chilling exposé on the big business of psychiatric drugging.

Psychiatrists now claim half the world's population will be mentally ill at one point or another. And, based on annual revenues for psychotropic drugs, they now have 330 billion reasons to convince this world it's mad.

Scientists are not the only ones who find these sort of facts disturbing. On the contrary, lay it out in anything approaching a graphic form and the psychiatric-pharmaceutical industry has a real problem. The Marketing of Madness* new documentary This is the definitive documentary on psychotropic drugging and how psychiatrists market madness. All told, it's 13 chapters containing three hours of exposé.

It hits it from every angle: the fact that Freud was the original poster child for pharmaceutical-grade cocaine and appeared on drug ads, the fact that psych drug manufacturers hire PR firms to help market mental disorders and the fact that drug testing is just a formality, inasmuch as outcomes are predetermined as is FDA approval.

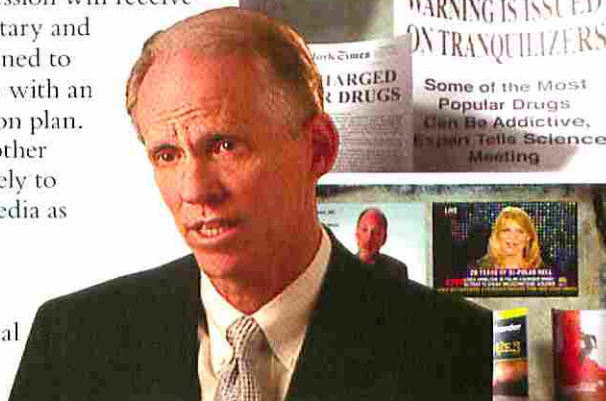

"THEY MAKE BILLIONS SELLING DRUGS TO HANDLE INVENTED DISORDERS."

There's a lot more on how MDs are persuaded to prescribe psych drugs which broadens pharmaceutical market shares. An especially in-depth chapter on psychiatric screening which is intended for everyone. Then there's the two-question survey that can land almost anyone in front of a psychiatrist and how and why psych's prime targets are schoolchildren, soldiers and pregnant mothers. While for the final revelation, psych drugs are not only exceedingly addictive, they're intentionally designed that way.

The first key public for which this film is intended are medical physicians and pharmacists. Because whether they know it or not, these are whom psych drug manufacturers primarily target. Which is why the medical profession will receive the documentary and booklet designed to activate them with an 11-point action plan.

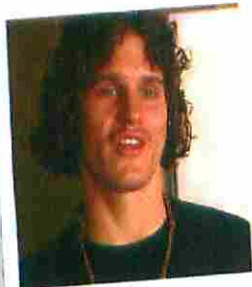

There's another mailing entirely to legislators, media as well as the psychs' worst nightmare—pharmaceutical injury attorneys.

NEW CCHR DOCUMENTARY ON DVD

Next is a widespread true data study with an all-new Marketing of Madness Education Package. It contains the DVD, an Educator's Guide and a series of six psychotropic drug-education booklets. Those booklets could not be more explicit with the complete history and side effects of every psychotropic drug on the shelf, making it

ANTIDEPRESSANTS
PSYCHOSTIMULANTS
ANTI-ANXIETY DRUGS
ANTI-PSYCHOTICS
PSYCHIATRIC DRUGS

easy for an MD to dutifully inform any patient demanding a psych drug after catching a pharmaceutical ad.

Combine it all and this is how it rolls out: While CCHR continues to unleash Industry of Death Traveling Exhibits on every psych stronghold, compound and convention, public service announcements will saturate airwaves, while the Industry of Death and Making a Killing documentaries continue to enlighten and activate.

Concurrently, the new Marketing of Madness documentary will be mailed to those who can do the most to eradicate this societal plague—the medical field, universities, prosecutors, legislators and advocacy groups. All the while the documentary airs on national TV to raise temperatures to incendiary levels.

Then to broadly inform and educate, the Marketing of Madness Education Package is distributed to universities, medical schools and like-minded groups. Simultaneously, and to make that education even more available, ads are placed to illuminate and expose psych-drug atrocities and drive consumers, lawyers and medical professionals to the new documentary.

To further reach the millions online, public information ads are placed to eradicate false data, promote the DVD and direct them to www.cchr.org. Visitors can then view the documentary and order online from the full range of CCHR materials, including the Marketing of Madness Education Package to empower them with the truth.

Combine it all and that's our IAS-sponsored salvage campaign to inform, educate, activate and otherwise accomplish: Psychiatry: Global Extinction!

The Marketing of Madness Education Package to inform, educate and activate

The Marketing of Madness Education Package includes The Marketing of Madness—Are We All Insane? Educator's Guide. It contains a seminar and lesson plans that fully utilize The Marketing of Madness documentary and zeros in on the psych drugs saturating society.

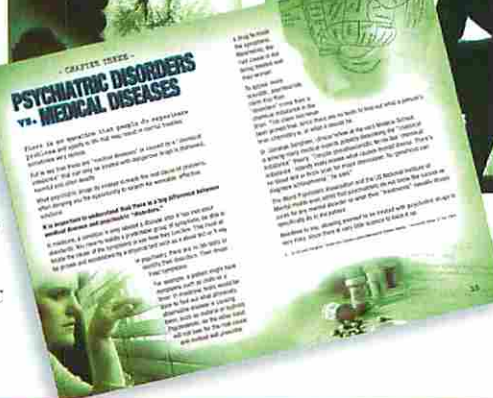

The package comes equipped with a series of tools, starting with six new information booklets covering a class of commonly prescribed psychotropic drugs:

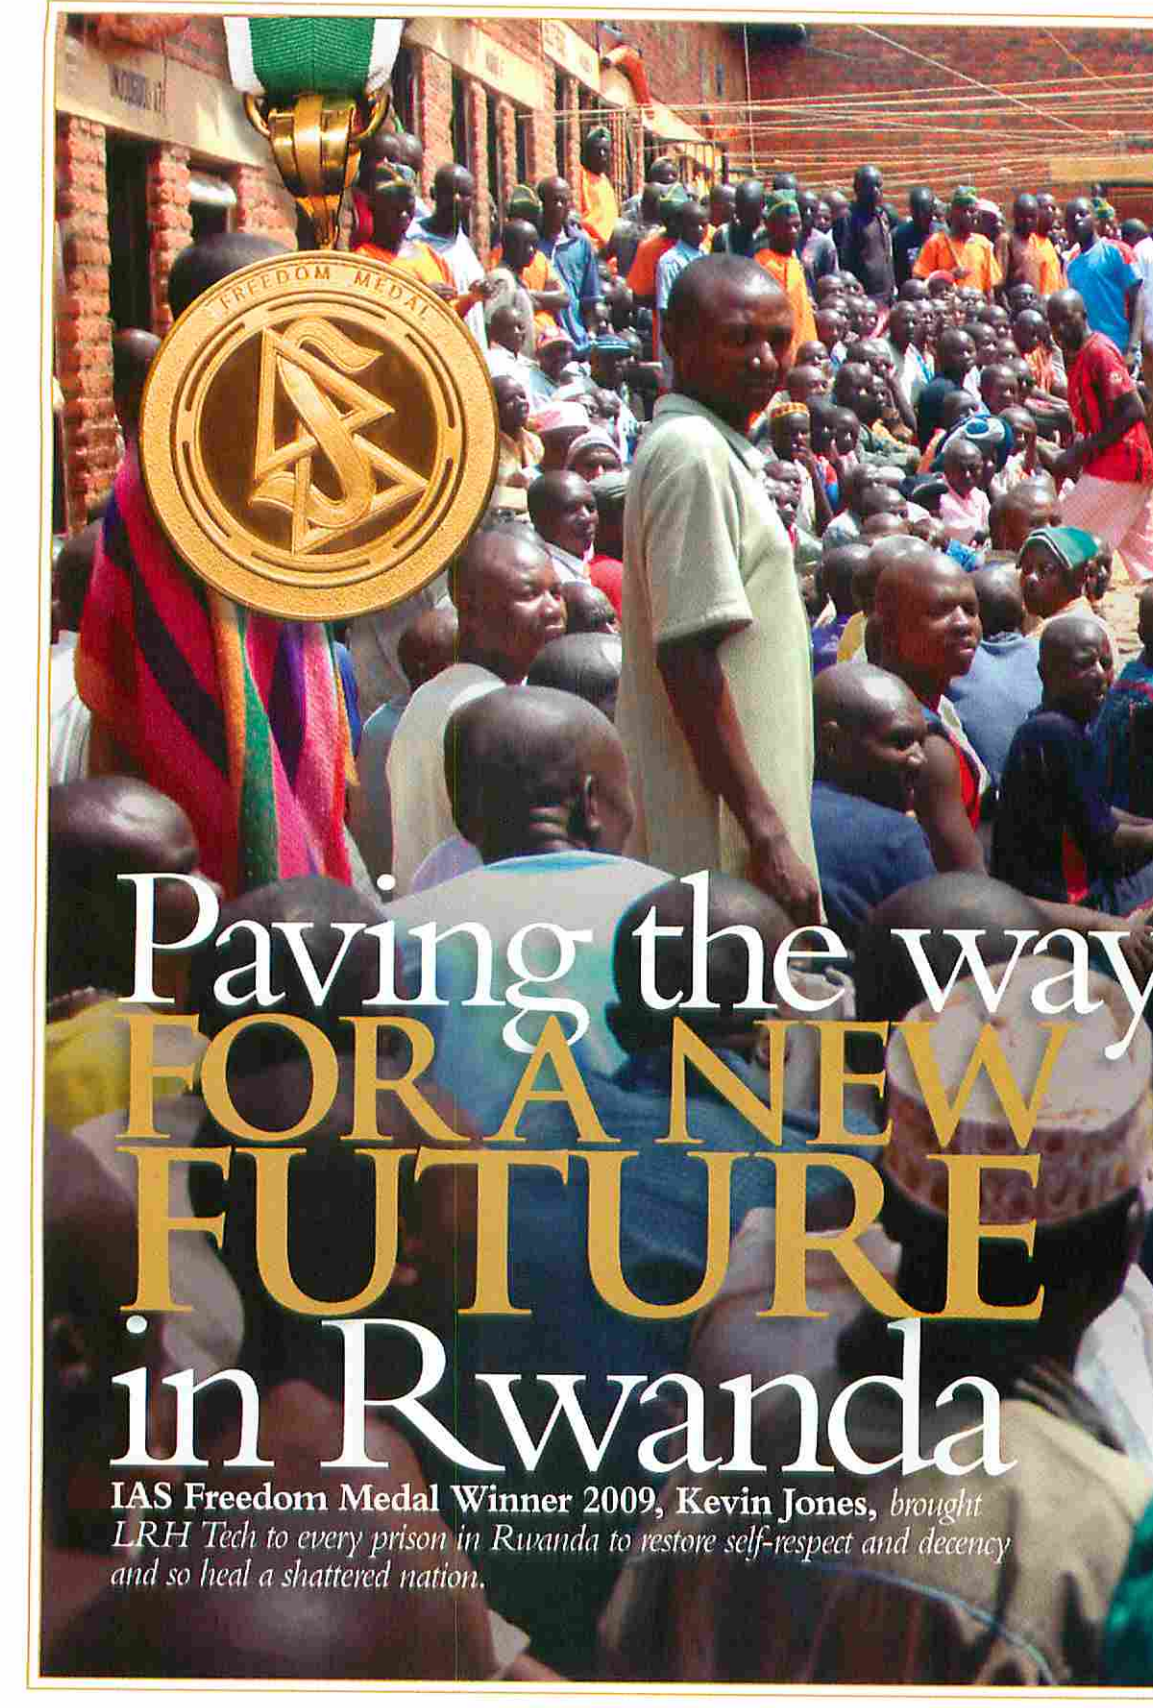

- Antidepressants
- Antipsychotics
- Psychostimulants
- Antianxiety Drugs
- Mood Stabilizers, and
- Psychiatric Drugs Create Violence & Suicide

Once one has read these booklets and watched the documentary, they will know for themselves that the pills being pushed are no more effective than sugar pills—yet more dangerous than most street drugs. There is also a comprehensive glossary to walk you through the convoluted psychiatric terminology.

Moreover, CCHR arms people with a full battery of forms—such as the “Psychiatric Living Will”—a declaration that is signed with an attorney to safeguard one from enforced psychotropic drugging or other damaging psych treatment. There are also Parent and Student Exemption Forms that can prevent covert Mental Health Screening.

Each of the new booklets detail the dangerous side effects of psychotropic drugs.

A large crowd of people, mostly men and children, are gathered in an outdoor setting, possibly a street or a public square. They are looking towards the camera. In the foreground, a large, circular gold medal is superimposed over the image. The medal has the words "FREEDOM MEDAL" around the top edge and a stylized "IAS" logo in the center. The background shows a brick building and some trees.

Paving the way FOR A NEW FUTURE in Rwanda

IAS Freedom Medal Winner 2009, Kevin Jones, brought LRH Tech to every prison in Rwanda to restore self-respect and decency and so heal a shattered nation.

A Criminon supervisor delivers the program to fellow inmates of Gitarama Prison.

It was on April 6th, 1994, that Hutu-led military and militia in Rwanda incited ordinary villagers into a genocidal rage against rival Tutsis. Over the next hundred days, more than a million were shot, clubbed and macheted to death. In the wake of the genocide, tens of thousands of civilians-turned-killers were rounded up and incarcerated in overcrowded Rwandan prisons to serve sentences up to 40 years. There they remained, descending down the scale, until Kevin Jones and a Criminon delivery team landed in Rwanda in December 2007.

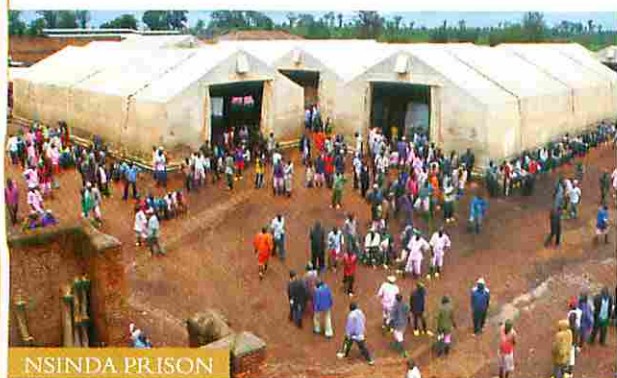

Kevin became a Scientologist in 1998 and was soon working as a Book One Auditor with the 45-man West Rand Field Group in Johannesburg. But when he volunteered to help Criminon South Africa by grading correspondence courses for 280 inmates, he witnessed the power of Criminon firsthand and discovered his calling. He soon rose through the ranks to take command of the continental network as Executive Director Criminon Africa.

Knowing that more than a decade after the genocide in Rwanda, authorities were still faced with the question of what to do with tens of thousands of civilians warehoused in prisons for their part in the events of 1994, Kevin decided to help. He and his Criminon team traveled to the Rwandan capital of Kigali, flash point of the Tutsi genocide where groundwork had been laid by ABLE veteran Maryse Fournial. He met with the Internal Affairs Ministry Secretary General and presented the Criminon program to him. The Secretary gave approval for 20 government staff from five prisons to undertake an intensive Criminon training program in the Ministry's own conference room in Kigali. The prison staff were joined by three national-level prison officials. After the initial training, came the ultimate test: in order to graduate, the new trainees each had to demonstrate they could standardly deliver the Criminon course to 50 inmates.

So it was that on December 18th, Kevin and the first trainee team crossed the threshold of Kigali Central Prison, a forbidding fortress-like structure built in 1930 which was filled to double capacity. Of the 3,900 inmates it housed, nine out of ten were genocide killers.

Delivery began at 8:00 A.M. in the prison chapel. Each member of the delivery team started with a group of 50 or so inmates and began the on-site Criminon program—two hours a day, five days a week.

As the inmates moved through the program, the changes became more and more profound. They began cleaning the grounds, planting plots of vegetables and caring for others.

With Criminon “on the map” in Kigali Central, Kevin and his team commenced bringing the Criminon program to the four remaining prisons in the Kigali region.

Remera Prison was little more than a walled-up parking lot with makeshift barracks where over 5,200 inmates were housed in tented structures. Over 200 stepped up to start the program on the first day, but under staff and inmate supervision the core group grew to 500. Gitarama Prison was home to over 7,000 inmates and, with the aid of a microphone and speakers, the Criminon trainees soon had upwards of a thousand on the program. Next it was Nsinda, in the district of Rwamagana where the first graduates of the program numbered 800. A thousand more inmates took to the commencement stage at Rilima.

MPANGA PRISON

KIGALI PRISON

Kevin and Aline Jones supervise training drills in Rilima Prison.

Just 14 days after the program began, and with better than 2,500 inmates on the Criminon curriculum, not only were inmates constructing their own course rooms and remaking prison yards, violence had dropped to zero in all five prison compounds and inmates were finally rebuilding their lives.

With this, Kevin and his supervisors had proven Criminon's workability across the rank and file of Rwandan cell blocks.

The next to be addressed were the "lifers," those who had been so swept up in the genocide, they had personally killed scores of villagers. One such man was known as "The Captain" and through the hundred days of genocide, he had put so many notches in his belt he'd lost count. Having successfully graduated the program, The Captain then trained as a Criminon supervisor and rehabilitating others soon became his greatest motivation. With each salvaged life, another notch came off his belt, until the numbers he'd personally guided through Criminon courses were so great he had again lost count—but it was over 300 in all. Moreover, The Captain had become the driving force behind Rilima's bid to set a Criminon record. And in August 2009, they did just that—as 3,500 inmates assembled in the prison courtyard to collect their certificates—the largest Criminon graduation in history.

When The Captain was summoned before the Gacaca Court, Rwanda's tribunal for justice and reconciliation, so thorough was his confession, so complete his rehabilitation, the judges not only commuted his sentence, they set him free.

And so it went in other prisons, with Criminon students wanting to set the record straight, coming forward and confessing all they had done and withheld to Gacaca Courts across the nation. Thousands passed the test of confession and contrition and were set free and allowed to return to their villages.

But while Kigali was the epicenter of the genocide, another nine prisons lay on the outer rim of the Rwandan holocaust and Kevin set his sights on salvaging the inmates in them all. The first was Kibungo Prison, in southeastern Rwanda where over 2,400 lived in squalor and at night the cries of the abused could be heard across the prison yard. On his first visit, Kevin started 10 staff on the supervisor training program including the head of the prison. When he returned nine months later, the supervisors had completed their training and had delivered the program to 1,200 inmates. But more importantly, the whole prison had been transformed and there were no more cries of abuse heard.

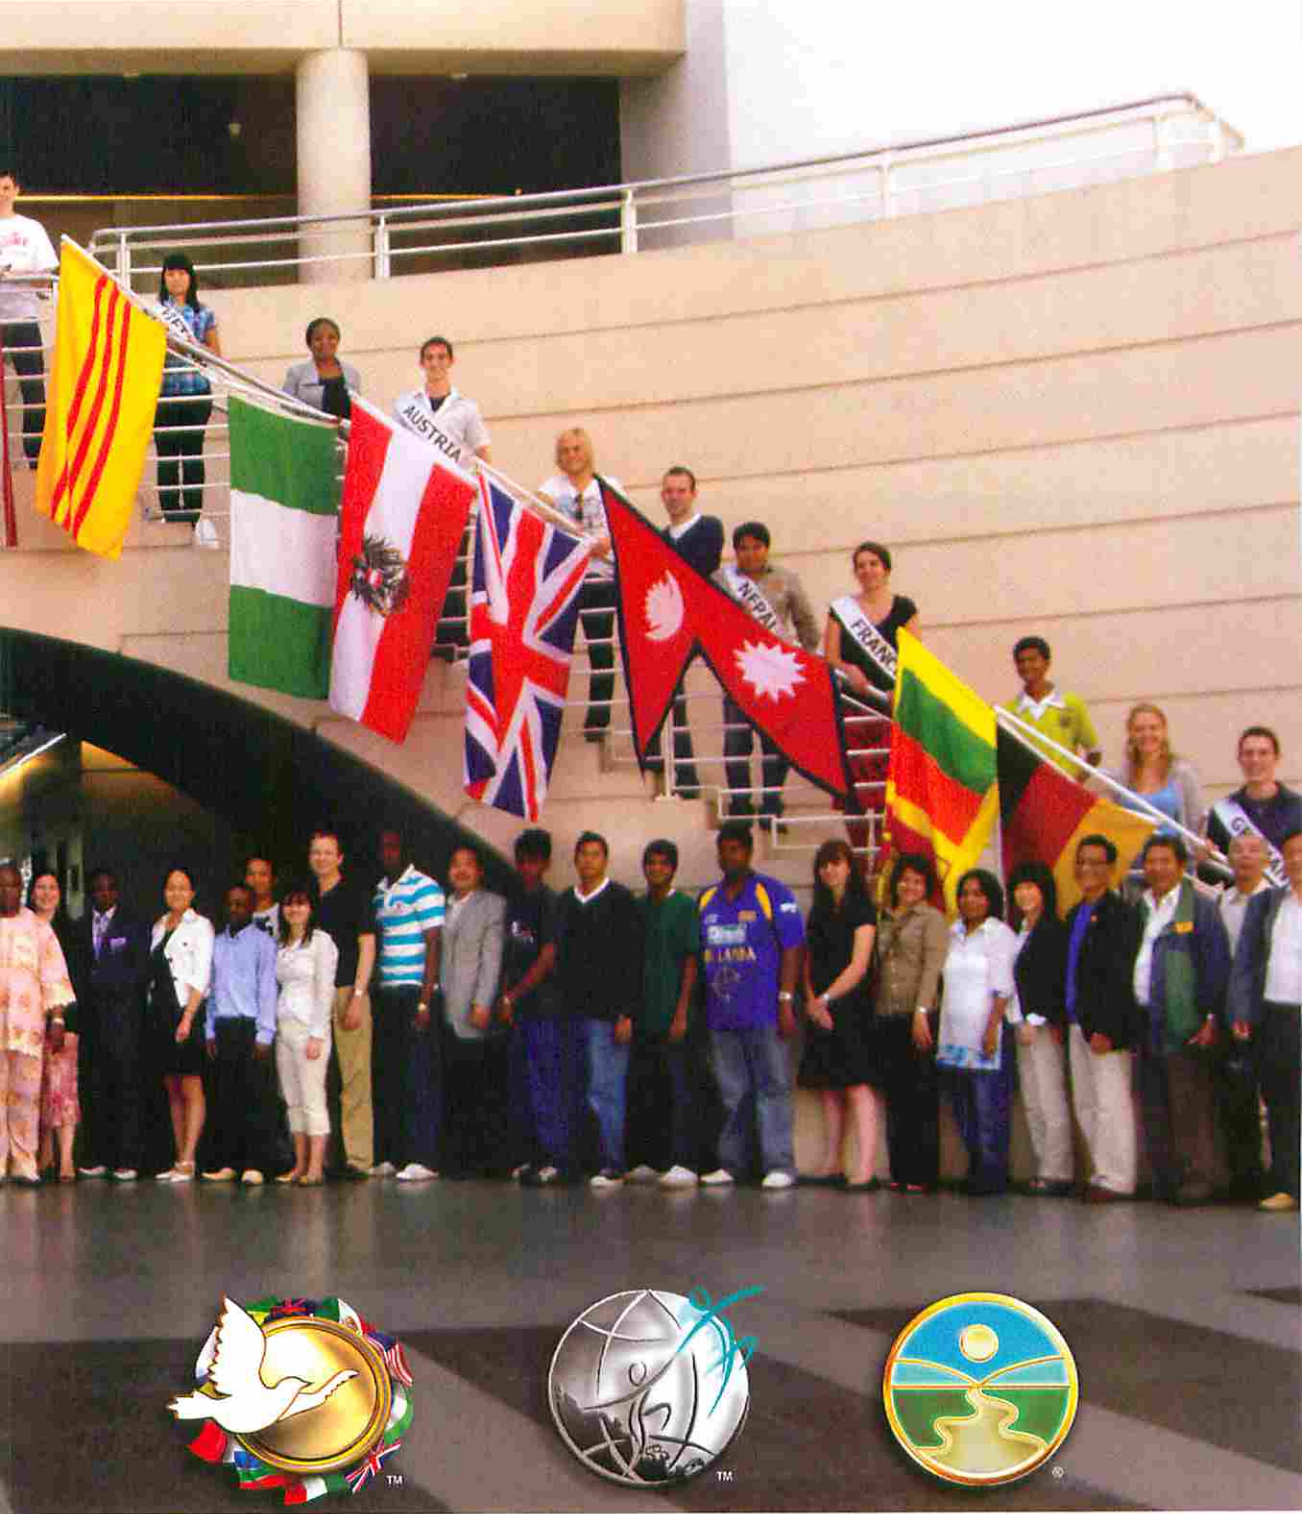

Then there was the old militia stronghold at Butare Prison, base of the squad leaders who were amongst the first to propagate the genocide in 1994. There too Kevin's Criminon team trained ten staff to deliver the Criminon program. Moving on to Mpanga, Gikongoro and Ruhengeri and the remaining four prison compounds, they brought the program to all nine facilities on the outer rim of Rwanda. In total, Kevin and his Criminon team trained more than 300 guards and 600 inmates, who in turn delivered Criminon courses to some 22,000 inmates. While no one will ever forget what happened through a hundred days of madness in 1994, Rwanda now looks to the future as among the safest nations in sub-Saharan Africa. Two years ago, Kevin Jones set out to show what Criminon could accomplish in a place that epitomized Man's inhumanity to Man. In so doing, he not only restored self-respect across an entire prison population, he helped rebuild a nation.

KEVIN JONES
IAS FREEDOM
MEDAL WINNER
2009

Receiving this medal is more than an acknowledgment and validation for work well done, it is a token and a reminder that there is still much more to be done. Time has never been more of the essence than it is now. We are the IAS and indeed the only group that is going to rid the planet of its ailments. I stand before all of you today as proof that it most certainly can be done. To Mr. Hubbard, I remain your humble servant, now and always and count it as my many blessings to serve you and others.

IAS-sponsored Global Salvage Campaigns shore up the civilization against drug abuse, immorality and a disregard for human rights. EACH CAMPAIGN COMPLEMENTS THE OTHERS, ATTACKING PLANETARY ABERRATION FROM THREE DIFFERENT ANGLES.

UNITED FOR HUMAN RIGHTS

Increasing awareness everywhere to ensure human rights abuse doesn't happen anywhere.

Without Human Rights there is no respect for life, hence the IAS-sponsored Human Rights initiative. It is designed to ignite worldwide support for the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, as adopted by the United Nations in 1948. It presents human rights educational materials to human rights bodies across the greater human rights network, including UN affiliates and human rights groups. Concurrently, Youth for Human Rights coordinates with similarly aimed organizations in human rights hot spots, while online education programs inspire and mobilize millions.

The program is called United for Human Rights and it is designed to create an irresistible force for universal human rights enforcement.

It begins with an annual grassroots petition drive that has been a campaign hallmark for the better part of a decade. Through it, popular pressure is brought to bear on governments to formally adopt the Universal Declaration.

The drives coincide with UNESCO's International Tolerance Day on November 16th, and the Universal Declaration anniversary, every 10th of December.

Petition drives gather widespread support for adoption of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights by governments.

The new film, The Story of Human Rights, was given to all attendees of the Geneva Human Rights Summit.

It aims to spark human rights amalgamation at every point on the social compass and transcends every color, creed and political ideology. Those signing on are a cross-section of humanity: blue collar, white collar, professionals, students, educators, managers—the very salt of the earth.

After nearly 12,000 signatures were collected across 107 cities, the cumulative total was more than 215,000 petitions from 29 nations.

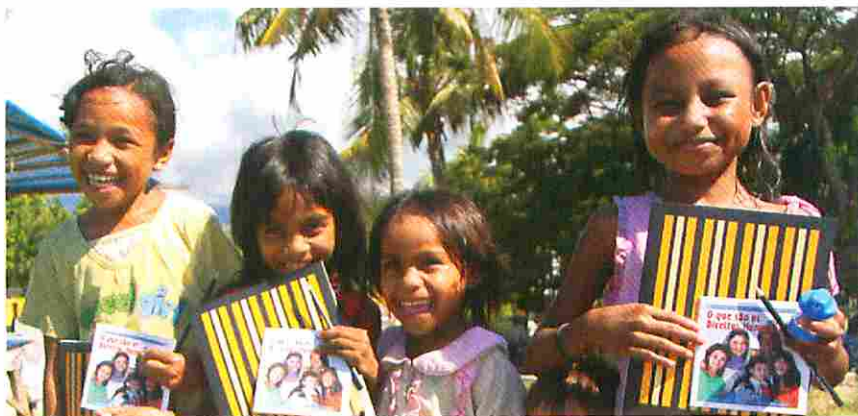

To ensure those voices are heard, the forum chosen this year was the United Nations European Headquarters in Geneva, home of the central UN Office of Human Rights.

In attendance were representatives and advocates from up and down human rights watch list nations: Vietnam, Jordan, the Congo, Nigeria, France and Germany. But it wasn't until we premiered The Story of Human Rights that all the key phrases coalesced: United, Youth and the 30 Articles of the Universal Declaration. At which point, one of the watch list nation representatives stated, "Youth for Human Rights International will be the voice of the future when all other voices are lost in the past."

All of the above brings about awareness, but phase two is making human rights a fact in some of the worst abuse zones on Earth. Liberia is the case study of how the program can mushroom when it is placed in the right hands. After West Africa's Youth for Human Rights Field Director presented the

In East Timor, the IAS-sponsored Youth for Human Rights materials were distributed, including the booklet What Are Human Rights?

Marc Koska, a Scientologist from England who invented a nonreusable needle to cut the spread of HIV, teamed up with Youth for Human Rights in India to promote "The Right to Life."

Youth for Human Rights education materials to government officials, they were seeded through schools and youth clubs. There are now 250 West African youth who are Human Rights Activists. Their first assignment was to spotlight Human Rights abuses in their own video documentaries of the real thing: rampant nepotism, bribery and how governments rip off oil revenues, then cut deals for AK-47s.

The program raised human rights awareness as it spread through Sierra Leone, Ghana, Togo and Ethiopia. Newspaper articles with the headlines "Youth Warned Against Mob Justice," "Corruption Denies Citizens Their Rights" and, "Youth for Human Rights Embarks on Education of Youth Rights" reached 18 million West African readers.

The next case study is India, where children endure every human rights abuse imaginable. But that is where Scientologist and Order of British Empire recipient, Marc Koska, recently joined India's Youth for Human Rights International representative, Natasha Jain. Marc invented a nonreusable needle to cut the spread of HIV, and so his recent India tour was all about Human Right number 3, "The Right to Life." Between news clips in Kolkata, Chennai and Mumbai, the Youth for Human Rights message went out to 197 million people.

The Southeast Asian case study is all about a "fair and free world" and raising human rights awareness both domestically in Taiwan and internationally. It began with Youth for Human Rights public service announcements in 480 schools playing to 120,000 kids. But they are now playing across some 50 Taiwan stations in Taipei, Kaohsiung, Ping Dong and Tainan City.

United for Human Rights materials are now in a thousand schools across watch list abuse zones and going straight into the teeth of human trafficking, forced labor and religious intolerance. There are those who say times are tough and school resources can't be wasted trying to teach kids the complexities and nuances of the 30 Articles in the Universal Declaration. In response, the IAS funds campaign materials so that educators can obtain them for free and so teach their students that every new inhabitant of Earth has the right to education, to a nationality and to life.

Concurrently, Human Rights public service announcements air across more than 70 nations—from Liberian National Television to Televeneto Italy and Family TV Germany, the Voice of America, CNN International, A&E and Sky Channel. IAS-sponsored mailings to Human Rights activists and organizations have resulted in 772 city, state and national groups, officials and agencies of 93 nations joining together in a unified front. By making the Universal Declaration known to 943 million people, this IAS-sponsored campaign is making Human Rights a fact.

OPERATION DRUG-FREE WORLD

The IAS-sponsored drug education program is the largest on the planet and counters drug propaganda with the truth.

A drugged society is a dead society and Operation Drug-Free Earth is the IAS-sponsored Fourth Dynamic Campaign that addresses global drug abuse. Check the headlines today, and the only word for it is epidemic. Scientologists have been tackling the problem since the 1970s, but today, thanks to the IAS, we now have the biggest drug education program on the planet, bar none.

"Say No to Drugs, Say Yes to Life" is a multi-channel, multi-media rollout with Anti-Drug Action Kits containing the 13 Truth About Drugs booklets. They, in turn, provide all essential facts of usage. The kits are selectively seeded across the social framework where drug abuse is most unchecked, with particular concentration on supplying instructors, counselors and school resource officers who work to keep kids off drugs at schools. All is then reinforced with anti-drug public service announcements and the new Truth About Drugs documentary to counter drug propaganda with the truth. In this way we simultaneously educate in homes, classrooms, on the streets: town by town, city by city, until this world is indeed drug-free.

It all begins at ground level with Drug-Free World teams targeting consumption routes along heavy usage zones. They are armed with Truth About Drugs booklets on heroin, crack cocaine, Ecstasy, painkillers, inhalants, LSD, and the rest of the deadly array. The teams concentrate on high-risk neighborhoods, where 13 and 14-year-old junkies are no longer the exception. Their goal is to catch kids before they fall and before some dealer tells a 12-year-old, “One hit won’t hurt you.”

They also work with law enforcement personnel who know who is using what on the streets, and where. And they continually track the trends, as in whether a particular age group is transitioning from cannabis to methamphetamines or worse. Volunteers can seed the world with 500,000 booklets in the space of a weekend and knock percentage points off usage in any given geographic zone. That is why nothing can replace grassroots distribution in terms of saturating every metropolitan center, every culture, every lifestyle with the truth about every drug of choice. It is also why

The Truth About Drugs has been presented to more than 24 million people, across 48 nations and 155 cities.

Drug-Free World also links with agencies most in need of our solutions. Ask any officer in any anti-drug capacity, and he will say they are only plugging leaks, at best. That is why, when one Sheriff’s Department Chief saw the 16 Truth About Drugs PSAs, he wanted the program. Following a two-hour Truth About Drugs seminar to 17 County Sheriffs who work “meth lab country,” the department arranged to be supplied with 10,000 packs of Truth About Drugs booklets, all of which will be printed by inmates of a local correctional facility.

The program is also being adopted at national levels. In Peru, the National Anti-Drug Police General has tried heavy enforcement and crop eradication to fight cocaine suppliers, but as of September this year, he contracted for Drug-Free World delivery to some 30,000 Peruvian youth.

But the definitive story of pipeline nations adopting the program is Guatemala. Facing politically radical cocaine gangs and lack of demonstrable results from previous programs, they have now green-lighted the Drug-Free World program. It went into immediate implementation with a series of Drug-Free World events, the first of which filled a soccer stadium. The public service announcements were released with a flurry of headlines and have been scheduled for Truth About Drugs saturation across Guatemala.

But if those are examples of campaign adoption by law enforcement, the key link is the schools and reaching children before they touch drugs.

The campaign targets every at-risk age group and so works with elementary, middle and high schools across every demographic area. Depending on proximity to supply lines, and whether or not older siblings are users, school kids as young as eight are now into recreational drug experimentation. The word "recreational" is deceptive, since it also includes psych prescription drugs. Upscale schools are also now filled with the whole line of designer drugs cooked up in urban laboratories, not to mention hydroponic cannabis that grows in water under powerful lamps. It is ten times more potent than the cannabis their grandparents used.

Though it has been said before, it has never been more relevant: The Truth About Drugs program does not scare kids into abstinence.

On the contrary, it educates and enlightens. It also speaks to them in their own language, so that even the most cynical 16-year-old can't say, "What do these guys know about it?" The people appearing in The Truth About Drugs documentary have actually been there, and know all about it. So whether along Chinese white heroin pipelines or Asian methamphetamine corridors, Truth About Drugs is now a movement in schools across 49 nations.

It is coupled with PSA saturation across the world, from South Africa's Soweto TV and HBO Pakistan to stations all over Italy, Greece, Hungary and the US. At the same time, IAS-sponsored mailings cement partnerships with government education bureaus, narcotics control boards and anti-drug forums. Better than a thousand city, state and national agencies are now making the Truth About Drugs program theirs.

And that is how Operation Drug-Free Earth has brought the anti-drug message to 853 million people.

THE WAY TO HAPPINESS OPERATION PLANETARY CALM

The most embracive IAS-sponsored Planetary Salvage Campaign provides people with the principles for living through the 21 precepts of The Way to Happiness.

The IAS-sponsored Fourth Dynamic Campaign, Operation Planetary Calm, provides populations with the principles for living through the 21 precepts of The Way to Happiness. More than 82 million copies of this booklet have been distributed in 94 languages and thousands of individuals and organizations have adopted it as their own, which has spread it even farther. It is additionally the backbone of the Criminon program and brings about factual rehabilitation of criminals.

It is uplifting societies in nations around the world. In Zimbabwe, a country in the grip of world-record hyper-inflation, 150 youth clubs chapters have adopted the program to quell tensions. When civil unrest erupted in Bangkok less than a year ago, an infusion of The Way to Happiness calmed riots in a flash. It is now spreading throughout Pakistan to help end rampant corruption that has fostered a breeding ground of criminality.

These stories and a thousand more span everything from interpersonal relationships to national problems, because The Way to Happiness is factually the most powerful weapon we possess for uplifting Man. All by itself it can start a cultural resurgence. After all, if the distribution of this booklet can end endemic gangland murders, quell riots, and bring Israelis and Palestinians together in the face of an intifada, what couldn't it do?

All unto itself, it can eradicate drug abuse, preserve the family unit, engender religious tolerance and remake this civilization into something of which we can be proud.

As LRH said upon authoring this book, "Across the planet, old social values have been broken. New moral values have not replaced them. Almost lost is one of Man's finest intellectual abilities: to live with dignity and honor. With The Way to Happiness you can, factually, change all this. All you have to do is keep that booklet flowing in the society. Like gentle oil spread upon the raging sea, the calm will flow outward and outward."

Considering what the book has already accomplished, the question becomes how to exponentially increase the spread of The Way to Happiness across the world and thereby bring its application to whole new levels. The answer is the new two-hour film The Way to Happiness. It is truly a book on film, every word verbatim and unabridged. Every chapter follows the book, precept by precept.

In this audiovisual age, film has the power to reach diverse cultures and peoples for which the booklet was intended—not only the everyday man on the street, but everybody else, from today's alienated youth to the fallen adult. It is also the key to reach those most in need of The Way to Happiness, but otherwise barred by illiteracy.

With The Way to Happiness film the means now exist to create a planetwide grassroots movement to uplift society.

Beyond that, The Way to Happiness film also marks the completion of all campaign elements for real Fourth Dynamic salvage. Each IAS-sponsored campaign—United for Human Rights, Operation Drug-Free Earth and Operation Planetary Calm—is now equipped with the full lineup of materials.

Each has an array of booklets, is flanked with public service announcements to bring about awareness, and filmed presentations. All three operate in tandem with the others to effect planetary salvage and follow a similar pattern.

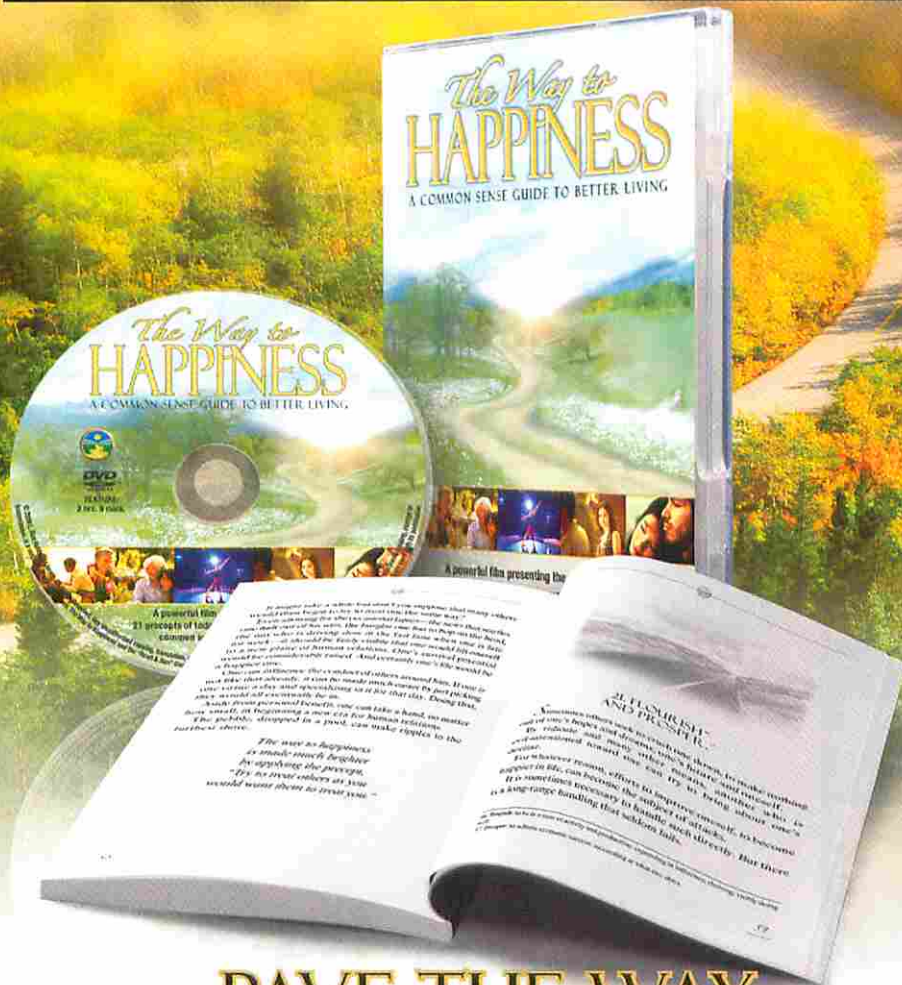

The first step is to provide all individuals integral to the campaign with the materials they need to fulfill their missions. Simultaneously, public service announcements and films go out across the airwaves, while ads introduce the programs to even more. Internet ads direct viewers to the campaign websites: drugfreeworld.org, humanrights.com and thewaytohappiness.org. There visitors can find answers, view all PSAs and films and order the materials.

It all combines in a fully coordinated fashion to ignite a genuinely concerted movement to rid this world of drugs, criminality, immorality and inhumanity.

CAPTURING THE MESSAGE OF INTEGRITY, MORALITY AND TRUST IN TODAY'S WORLD

In a chaotic world of plummeting moral standards The Way to Happiness: A Common Sense Guide to Better

Living reaches out to millions of people across 130 nations with a message of integrity, morality and trust.

Now The Way to Happiness has been produced as a feature-length film. And with that adaptation comes a cinematic experience unlike any you have ever seen. For here, running parallel with the full text narration of the book, you will find a series of interwoven stories, each featuring different individuals caught up in the drive and drama of living. You'll follow their losses, wrong turns, dilemmas, trauma and triumphs—until each person finally arrives onto the way to happiness.

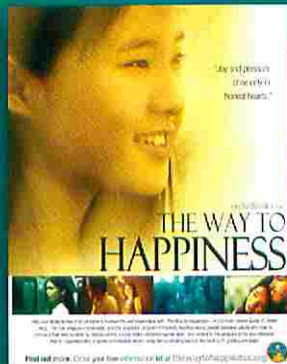

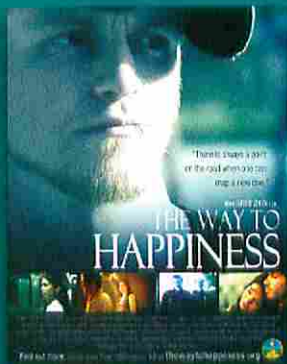

Here is a film about life, finding one's way and the persistence of the human spirit.

And in the end, you experience a riveting visual presentation of The Way to Happiness' universal and timeless message—at once compelling and inspiring, a message you can now pass on to others and so enhance their survival and future as well.

To make The Way to Happiness book-on-film and Education Program broadly known, ads will be placed in publications read by teachers, business leaders, correctional officers and law enforcement.

Operation Planetary Calm Education Program

A recent survey showed 35 percent of all employees steal from their employers; there are more than 9.25 million people incarcerated and an 85 percent recidivism rate in USA correctional institutions; 75 percent of high-school students admit to cheating.

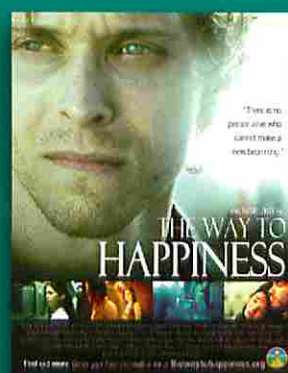

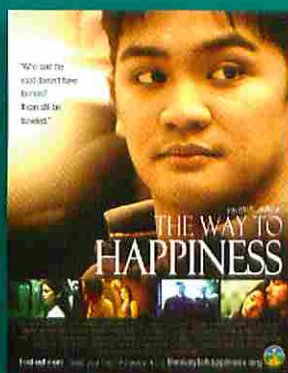

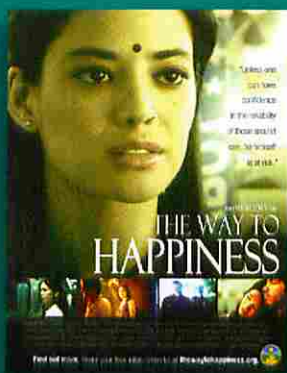

The Way to Happiness Education Program is directed right into these hot spots and includes a complete curriculum with an Educator's Kit and Educator's Guide based entirely on The Way to Happiness book and film.

The school program has the students watch each of the book's precepts depicted on film and in the PSAs and then do lessons and practical tasks on each one, including homework assignments to apply the precepts in their lives.

For businesses, it's The Way to Happiness Common Sense Values for the Workplace Kit, which again includes watching each of the precepts and a guide to use in educating employees to make more ethical and honest decisions.

Then for the correctional institutions, we have created The Way to Happiness—Restoring Self-Respect and Common Sense Values Kit for educating incarcerated offenders. The film is the vital component of this prison program, because the average reading age of inmates is that of a 10 year-old.

With these complete packages, we will spread calm throughout the areas most in need and help achieve planetary calm.

LAS Freedom Medal Winner 2009 Andrés López has restored public trust in those that protect the nation and has put Colombia on the road to happiness.

Andrés delivers a seminar to students at Tomás Carrasquilla College in Bogotá.

If you want a working definition for a narco-democracy then spend a little time with National State Security in Colombia. For 44 years, Colombian society has been ravaged by an armed conflict between paramilitary groups, guerrillas and government forces—heavily funded by a drug trade that supplies 60 percent of the world's cocaine.

At the height of their powers, Colombian cartels took in up to $60 million a day from the illegal drug trade—and used money and extreme violence to bribe and undermine the Colombian law enforcement and criminal justice system until no one could trust the security forces anymore and Colombia reigned as the “world’s kidnap capital,” with up to 3,572 kidnappings in a single year.

Corruption in every echelon of the armed forces and government was rampant, giving rise to headlines such as “Colombia Arrests Soldiers for Killing Civilians,” referencing a case where street kids from Bogotá were dressed in leftist guerilla fatigues and then slain by soldiers for the bonus-pay awarded to those who met combat-kill quotas.

It was against this backdrop that IAS

Freedom Medal Winner for 2009, Andrés López, set out to restore the bonds of trust and brotherhood and remake his nation. As Colombia’s premier stand-up comedian, Andrés has performed for more than a million fans, filling halls from Miami to Madrid. After he discovered Scientology in late 2003, Andrés was introduced to The Way to Happiness and knew he’d found a tool with which to instill new values in the culture. Since that time he has been on a crusade presenting it to his nation.

It began in earnest in late 2004 when a general at a Colombian Air Force Base requested that Andrés perform his comedy show to raise the morale of officers and families on the base. Not only did Andrés deliver his show—and at no charge—but he further elevated their morale by giving them copies of The Way to Happiness. He repeated his successful pattern of combining comedy performances and The Way to Happiness distribution to elite pilots, national police, navy cadets and anti-insurgency personnel.

While giving performances for Bogotá’s industrial and political elite, Andrés had the opportunity to present The Way to Happiness to the country's president and shortly thereafter to the First Lady. This led to an audience with her in the palace, and soon thereafter Andrés wrote and delivered a two-hour Way to Happiness seminar to 80 members of the presidential staff. Its success opened the doors to delivery to National Security Services and government officials across the nation.

Knowing that The Way to Happiness could restore trust and bring calm where it was most needed, Andrés then took The Way to Happiness seminar to the ones who "confront the unconfontable" every day—the military, the police, and those who daily fight narco-trafficking and terrorism.

Andrés also brought the message of The Way to Happiness to "Top Gun" trainees at the Air Force Academy, to the National Judicial Police in Bogotá and to Naval Academy cadets. He was now funneling thousands of booklets a month to Colombia's armed forces and the National Police. Those who had previously turned a blind eye to human rights abuses and unmarked graves or were on the take from drug trafficking rings, were finally learning to live with themselves because Andrés López was using The Way to Happiness to teach them to live with the truth.

When diplomatic tensions suddenly flared following heavy Colombian military action on guerilla encampments across the Colombian border, threats of war soon dominated the South American headlines. That is when Colombia's Andrés López linked with Venezuelan Flying with the Colombian Air Force.

The “Day for Peace” events in Caracas (top) and Bogotá (above). Andrés was presented with a medal by the Ministry of Defense inscribed “Soldier of Happiness” (below).

IAS Freedom Medal Winners, Audrey Cabrera and Ruddy Rodríguez for a series of events they dubbed “A Day for Peace.” They began at the Sambil Plaza in Caracas where 7,000 public assembled for Ruddy, Andrés and the 21 precepts of The Way to Happiness. At the Plaza de las Americas in Bogotá, another 11,000 gathered as a sign of solidarity. They held yet another packed event at the Maracaibo bullfight plaza.

At which point, nobody could miss the “gentle calm” flowing in the wake of 100,000 booklets. When Venezuela withdrew their armored divisions and stood down their fighter squadrons from the Colombian border and diplomatic ties resumed, it was headline news across South America. For his part in presenting a common-sense guide to better living and instilling ideals of brotherhood and nondiscrimination, Colombia’s armed forces acknowledged Andrés López with a special Ministry of Defense award—decorating him as an emissary of peace and “Soldier of Happiness.”

Andrés next reached out to major colleges, polytechnics and universities, multinational businesses and city officials with The Way to Happiness. Colombia’s Naval Command placed The Way to Happiness into the Colombian naval curriculum. And so he continued, spreading word of the precepts across National Police departments, across the Air Force and Army infrastructure and even to the Colombian Senate. The Senate recognized Andrés for spreading peace and tolerance—and presented him with the Medal of Democratic Merit. There was still more as 160,000 people picked up booklets at his workshops and seminars, while 20 million more tuned in to hear about The Way to Happiness Precept 10, "Support a government designed and run for all the people."

The Way to Happiness has been a catalyst for positive change and the change in Colombia can actually be measured: In Bogotá, narco-political killings plunged 70 percent. In Medellín, homicides dropped 90 percent and all over the barrios of Barranquilla and Soacha, paramilitary abductions fell 91 percent.

In a country where they used to say every cop was a criminal and every soldier a coldblooded killer, public trust in police and armed forces has never been higher in Colombian history. A legacy of violence and drugs had all but torn Colombia asunder, but Andrés López set out to restore bonds of trust and brotherhood. By teaching people to live with the truth, he is making Colombian history with The Way to Happiness.

ANDRÉS LÓPEZ IAS FREEDOM MEDAL WINNER 2009

Ron taught me how to improve my career and create comedy at the top of the Tone Scale. It's amazing what I have learned. When I was introduced to The Way To Happiness booklet, I said, "Happiness is part of my job, as a comedian I need to create that effect." I then created a show from this wonderful little booklet—and that's when the magic started.

Later, when I was on the Freewinds studying the State of Man Congress I saw the steps of everything I needed to do were right there in those lectures.

Since I was a kid I always wanted to be like a superhero that helps others, and Ron showed me how. So, with my abilities that he helped me to improve, plus the booklet, I saw the effect created: a changing country, just reborn in front of my eyes.

To Mr. L. Ron Hubbard, you've been so generous with all of us. I have this medal now in order to continue with the task. So thank you, for showing me how to do the right stuff, and also for The Bridge and for freedom. Thank you with all my heart, you are my true friend.

ADVANCING SCIENTOLOGY

The IAS keeps The Bridge secure while advancing our religion with strategic Ideal Orgs and new organizations at the top of The Bridge.

The final component of what the IAS means in the name of protecting, defending and advancing is about bringing freedom itself. It is part and parcel of the IAS legacy from its earliest days. In this age of Ideal Orgs, IAS support makes possible the establishment of new Churches in both cultural centers and hot spots that are of paramount importance to every Scientologist and to the religion as a whole in terms of planetary salvation, clearing and OT. While this has taken on whole new meaning today as regards scope and size, it is part of the very tradition of the IAS that has brought us to where we are today.

Buildings for new Advanced Organizations have been acquired for Latin America, Canada and Africa which will soon make the upper spans of The Bridge accessible in every continental zone. However, IAS support in the name of OT had a far earlier beginning. In the dark days of the 1980s, the delivery of the OT levels was itself threatened. With LRH researches advancing to the very top, a safe and utterly distraction-free environment was necessary so that Scientologists could traverse The Bridge into eternity. The IAS consequently provided a grant for the acquisition and refit of the Sea Org Motor Vessel Freewinds which, in turn, made the release of New OT VIII possible.

To ensure the lower Bridge so that Scientologists everywhere could make it to the top, the IAS next funded a new Church for Hamburg, then site of our greatest suppression. Following our victory in Spain, came the establishment of the new National Church in Madrid and the subsequent religious recognition for Scientology in that nation.

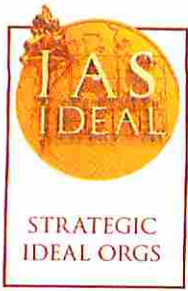

After 9/11, no city held greater importance than the site of Ground Zero, and IAS funded the new Ideal Org in New York City.

London is the center of the English-speaking world and of monumental importance as the most cosmopolitan city on Earth, which is why the IAS funded the Ideal Org now situated there.

And needing no explanation, is the IAS-sponsored Ideal Org in Berlin.

In a very real sense, it is the IAS and only the IAS that ensures The Bridge remains secure in the face of darkest suppression and in the most important cultural centers of Earth.

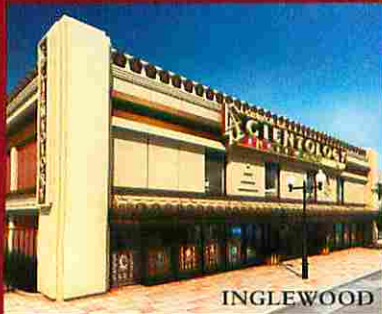

IAS-SPONSORED STRATEGIC IDEAL ORGS IN THE CENTERS OF CIVILIZATION

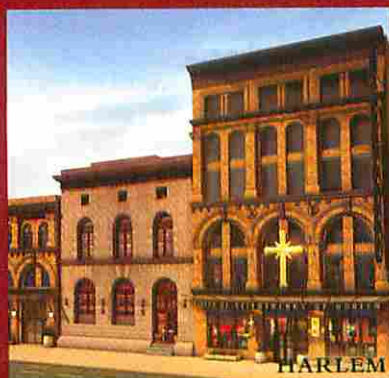

IAS support makes possible the establishment of Churches of Scientology in both cultural centers and hot spots that are of paramount importance to Scientologists everywhere. First was the Church of Scientology Hamburg, followed by IAS-sponsored strategic Ideal Orgs in Madrid, New York, London and Berlin.

IAS-SPONSORED STRATEGIC IDEAL ORGS ON THE RUNWAY

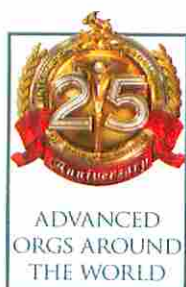

Strategically located orgs sponsored by the IAS are slated to open in Harlem, Inglewood, Tel Aviv, Bulawayo, Harare and Kaohsiung.

Advancing Scientology is at the very heart of the IAS purpose, and therefore it is in the name of Scientology expansion that the IAS is at the forefront of making the OT levels available. IAS grants made possible the acquisition of the Freewinds enabling New OT VIII to be released. IAS grants have now funded new Advanced Orgs for Africa, Canada and Latin America—part of the IAS senior agenda for an OT civilization, made possible only by the cumulative power of the IAS.

CHURCH OF SCIENTOLOGY

WASHINGTON DC

Founding Church in the American Capital

Scientology's very beginnings as a Church were in Washington, DC, a city that for good or for bad affects the rest of the planet. Home to the government of what is arguably the last remaining super power, it is now also home to the new IAS-sponsored Founding Church of Scientology. This new Ideal Org stands just six blocks from the White House and minutes away from National Mall. The building itself is a Washington landmark originally called the Embassy House when the cornerstone was laid in 1918.

Situated amongst the city's 174 foreign embassies, what rises today at 1424 16th Street Northwest is seven stories of 21st century Scientology. The design is classically American and as elegant as any address on Embassy Row. Here diplomats and decision-makers will be formally introduced to Dianetics and Scientology and get their first glimpse of LRH in the Public Information Displays that cover every facet of his life.

Because a decision made in this city can affect the lives of billions, the IAS has sponsored this new Ideal Org. Here people can not only learn about the fundamentals of Dianetics and Scientology, but also be introduced to the full array of social betterment technology and our Planetary Salvage Campaigns.

Virtually every inch of an Ideal Org is the embodiment of LRH Tech and Policy and designed to usher large numbers up The Bridge. Introductory service areas can accommodate more than 300 people at a time for testing, seminars and courses. The Purification Center is replete with a hand-painted mural that offers a view of the cherry blossoms along the Potomac.

GOLDEN AGE OF KNOWLEDGE BOOKSTORE

PUBLIC INFORMATION CENTER ON DIANETICS AND SCIENTOLOGY

And inasmuch as this Org is literally an island in a sea of foreign embassies, the Golden Age of Knowledge Bookstore stocks every LRH book and lecture series in all major languages.

Washington is where LRH established and supervised the very first Academy of Scientology, and this new Ideal Org carries on the tradition with an Academy where 180 students can train every course period. There the Org will train their own expanded delivery team as well as auditors for groups and Missions across the Potomac, in Virginia and Maryland. Washingtonians will be able to rapidly move up The Bridge in the Org's full block of ideal auditing rooms.

Washington is also where the phrase "LRH Congress" was born, and the new Org's Chapel will host not only Congresses but banquets, Sunday Services, weddings, naming ceremonies and all other Church events.

The LRH Office is in tribute to the man who not only served as Executive Director of the Founding Church, but also built the means by which to truly fulfill the American dream of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Brussels is the seat of the European Union and home to the European Commission and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), as well as some 150 embassies and thousands of multi-national corporations.

For all those reasons, the establishment of this brand-new Church is unique among all Scientology Churches. For if Brussels is home to so much that is Europe, so too will be this new Church. Its name is Churches of Scientology for the European Communities.

A nighttime photograph of a Brussels street. On the left, a large, ornate building is illuminated with warm lights. A prominent clock tower with a large clock face is visible on the left side of the building. The street is paved and has a tram stop in the foreground. The sky is dark with some clouds, and the overall atmosphere is serene and historic.

BRUSSELS

Bringing peace and unity to Europe

The building has been a landmark since the 19th century, and comprises a row of three interconnected buildings claiming a prominent corner on Waterloo Boulevard.

Its Art Nouveau wrought-iron gates open onto a classic reception. When they cross the threshold, the greater Brussels diplomatic community will have the opportunity to find out exactly who we are and what we represent.

At 80,000 square feet, this Ideal Org now stands as the largest Church of Scientology in the whole of Western Europe. Everything about this org is epic. The public displays are designed to present the whole forward face of Scientology to the European family of nations and are an exhibition hall all unto themselves.

Up the grand staircase are the rest of the Public Divisions including the Golden Age of Knowledge Center. With 2,500 foreign diplomats in the city, it will provide basic books in 15 major languages.

This org is also designed to deliver Dianetics and Scientology services in quantity, with introductory lines configured to accommodate large numbers of students and a Test Center primed for capacity.

As this Church will effectively serve the entire continent, the gateway to The Bridge is commensurately wide and can accommodate upwards of 350 people on introductory services at any given time. All introductory services will be available, including Life Improvement Courses that provide the tools for any and all life ruins.

The upper floors are devoted to training. The Academy will seat 278 students in any given course period and will train auditors to lay the groundwork for a network of groups and Missions throughout the French and Flemish

ROMA

Our new Ideal Org in the Eternal City

It is a city that looms very large in popular imagination and may well be the most significant city of them all. It has been called the City of God, and the center of Western Civilization and when they begin to describe you as a World Religion, then you'd better have an address in Rome, the place where all roads meet.

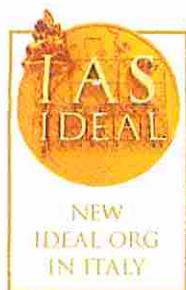

This new IAS-sponsored Ideal Org stands on 28 acres in Rome's Casalotti region, barely 30 minutes from the center of the city. This Church places a Scientology presence in the birthplace of the Renaissance and Western Civilization. It is signature Ideal Org style in every respect: with a long and gracious gallery of Public Information Displays, the Scientology cross on a glass panel, and a hint of fluted columns. It presents the whole panorama of Dianetics and Scientology, as well as all frontline LRH Technology.

Literature has always held a special place in Roman hearts and so the works of LRH are available in all various languages spoken by residents and pilgrims to this city.

The Testing Center is clean-lined and expansive and it is the same with spaces reserved for Book One Seminars. In a city that all but invented oratory, the Success Through Communication Course room will accommodate large numbers of students.

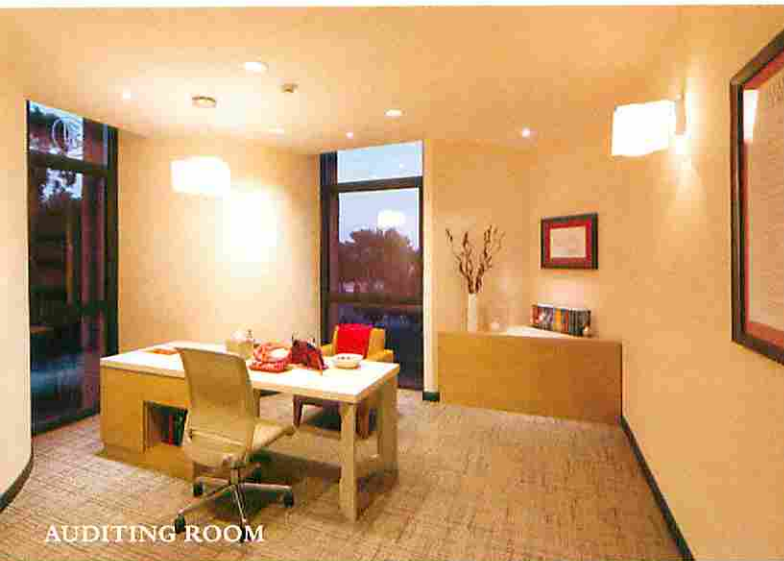

HUBBARD GUIDANCE CENTER LOUNGE

AUDITING ROOM

The Life Improvement course room and other introductory spaces afford a panoramic view of the courtyard.

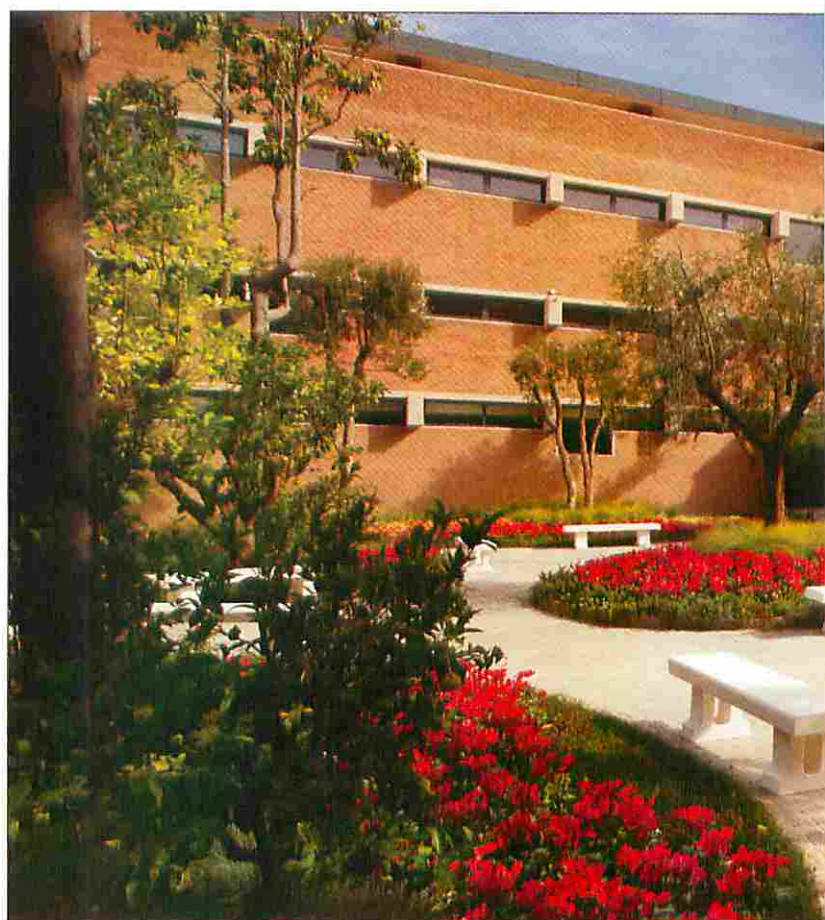

The Academy is designed to accommodate 150 auditors-in-training and the HGC is among the most inviting ever created, literally a threshold to Clear.

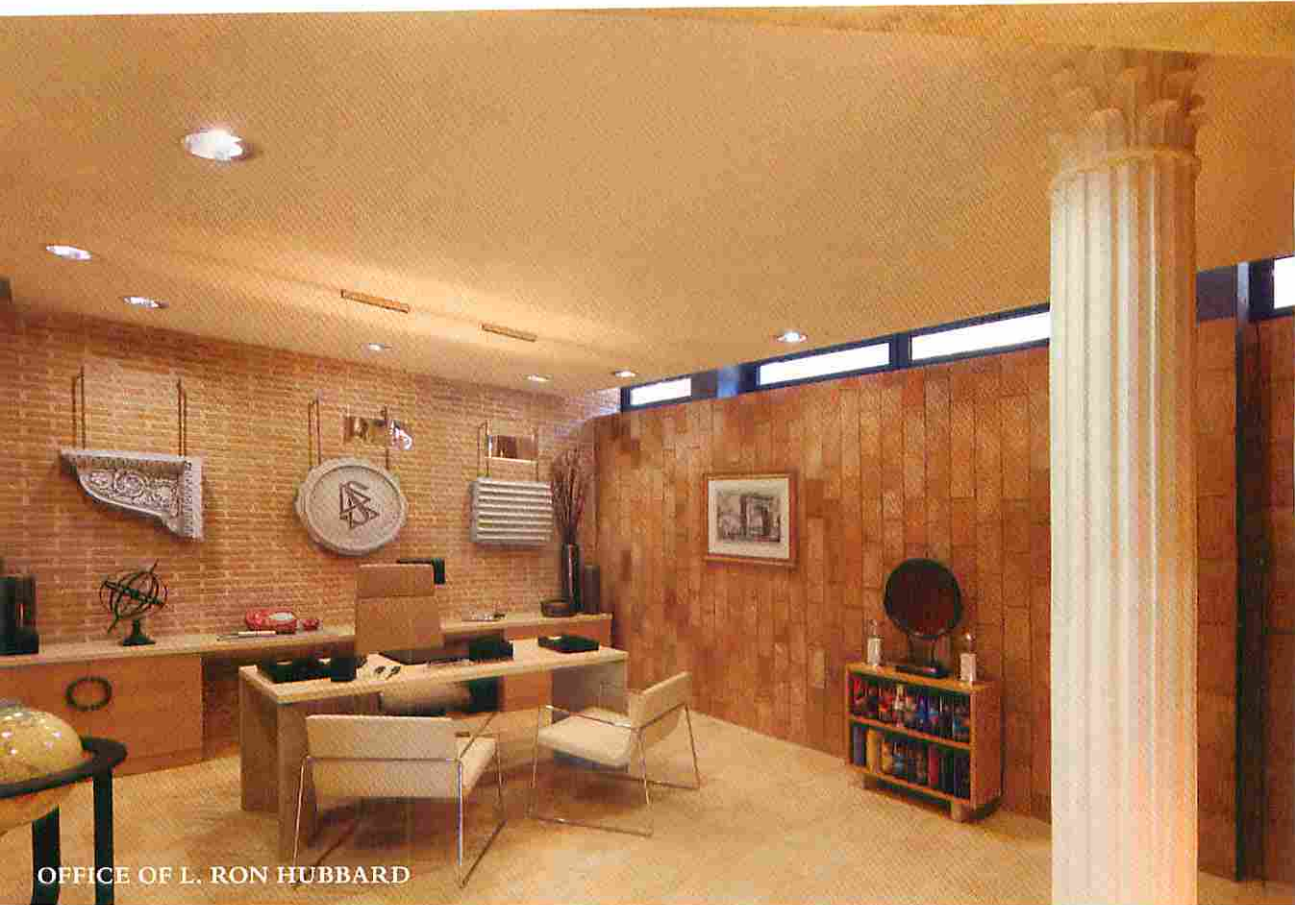

In the Qual Library, Rome's history intersects with our own, for the whole concept of a Qual Division followed in no small part from an LRH study of the rise and fall of the Roman Empire.

The Roman café, when coupled with al fresco dining on the terrace, will afford a classic dining experience between sessions and on course breaks.

No Roman villa would be worth its laurel leaves without a pleasure garden, and the garden of this Ideal Org was especially designed for contemplative renaissance moments. But the new heart and soul of Rome is the new ideal auditorium which can accommodate any number of functions, from banquets and community gatherings to interfaith meetings and Bridge-flow events.

But in this Ideal Org, all roads lead to the LRH Office which stands in honor of the man whose quest for truth gave rise to the religion of all religions, and so gave way to our new golden age.

NOW AND FOREVER WE ARE THE IAS

Bringing the IAS Silver Anniversary event to a close, Chairman of the Board Religious Technology Center Mr. David Miscavige stressed that our magnificent accomplishments of the last 25 years herald a future that will be more glorious than we could have ever imagined.

The closing address by Chairman of the Board RTC at the IAS 25th Anniversary event is presented here in full for all members.

So there you have it, three new IAS-sponsored Ideal Churches of Scientology at the very pivot points of this planet. It all begins yet another new era in each respective zone—in Rome, in Washington, DC, and in Brussels. Yet if it all seems a fitting statement and punctuation of just how far we've come, it's factually just a herald of the future: Moscow, Kaohsiung, Tel Aviv, Harlem, Advanced Orgs in all continental zones, all of them centers of civilization. All of them on the near horizon.

Yet even that is but the briefest of views. As we look over our shoulder with a "parting glance" to the past 25 years, let's take a good hard look at how we arrived at today. Because, for everything tomorrow holds, it's all because of who we are as the IAS. New Orgs, new AOs, the top of The Bridge itself—omit the IAS and there's none of it.

Twenty-five years ago the challenge was to stay alive.

And for all you've heard this evening about the battles to secure our freedom, there are hundreds more we didn't even touch upon. For the fact is, by the very nature of what Scientology represents, it will be opposed by the status quo, the power elite, and those who abhor the thought of freedom for another.

So it has been. So it is.

Moreover, when you are on the front lines, when you are expanding territory, you become more visible than ever—which, of course, makes it easier for the enemy to put your head in the cross hairs. All of which might leave one with the impression that it's dangerous.

However, if the past 25 years have taught us anything, it's that it's dangerous NOT to stand in the light and be counted. So yes, there will be battles to come. But keep in mind the ones we have fought. For the fact is we have overcome the greatest obstacles we could ever face. I could give you doom and gloom and say there will be more of the same. But such would not be true.

Our battles of yesterday were to stay alive. Our battles of tomorrow are to overcome the obstacles to eternity itself.

As we look over our shoulder with a parting glance to the past 25 years, let's take a good hard look at how we arrived at today.

Because, for everything tomorrow holds,
IT'S ALL BECAUSE OF WHO WE ARE AS THE IAS.

New Orgs, new AOs, the top of The Bridge itself—OMIT THE IAS AND THERE'S NONE OF IT.

In 1984 we had a choice: whether to hunker down in the shadows and pray the bullets miss us—or to advance, come hell or high water, with our torches held high.

So yes, that is the lesson we have learned: the lesson of Flourish and Prosper. And because we've never taken our eye off the ultimate prize, we stand where we are today: 25 years of magnificent accomplishment. And more than that, a future more glorious than we could have ever imagined.

And all because we have never abandoned each other.

Because we have not betrayed one another.

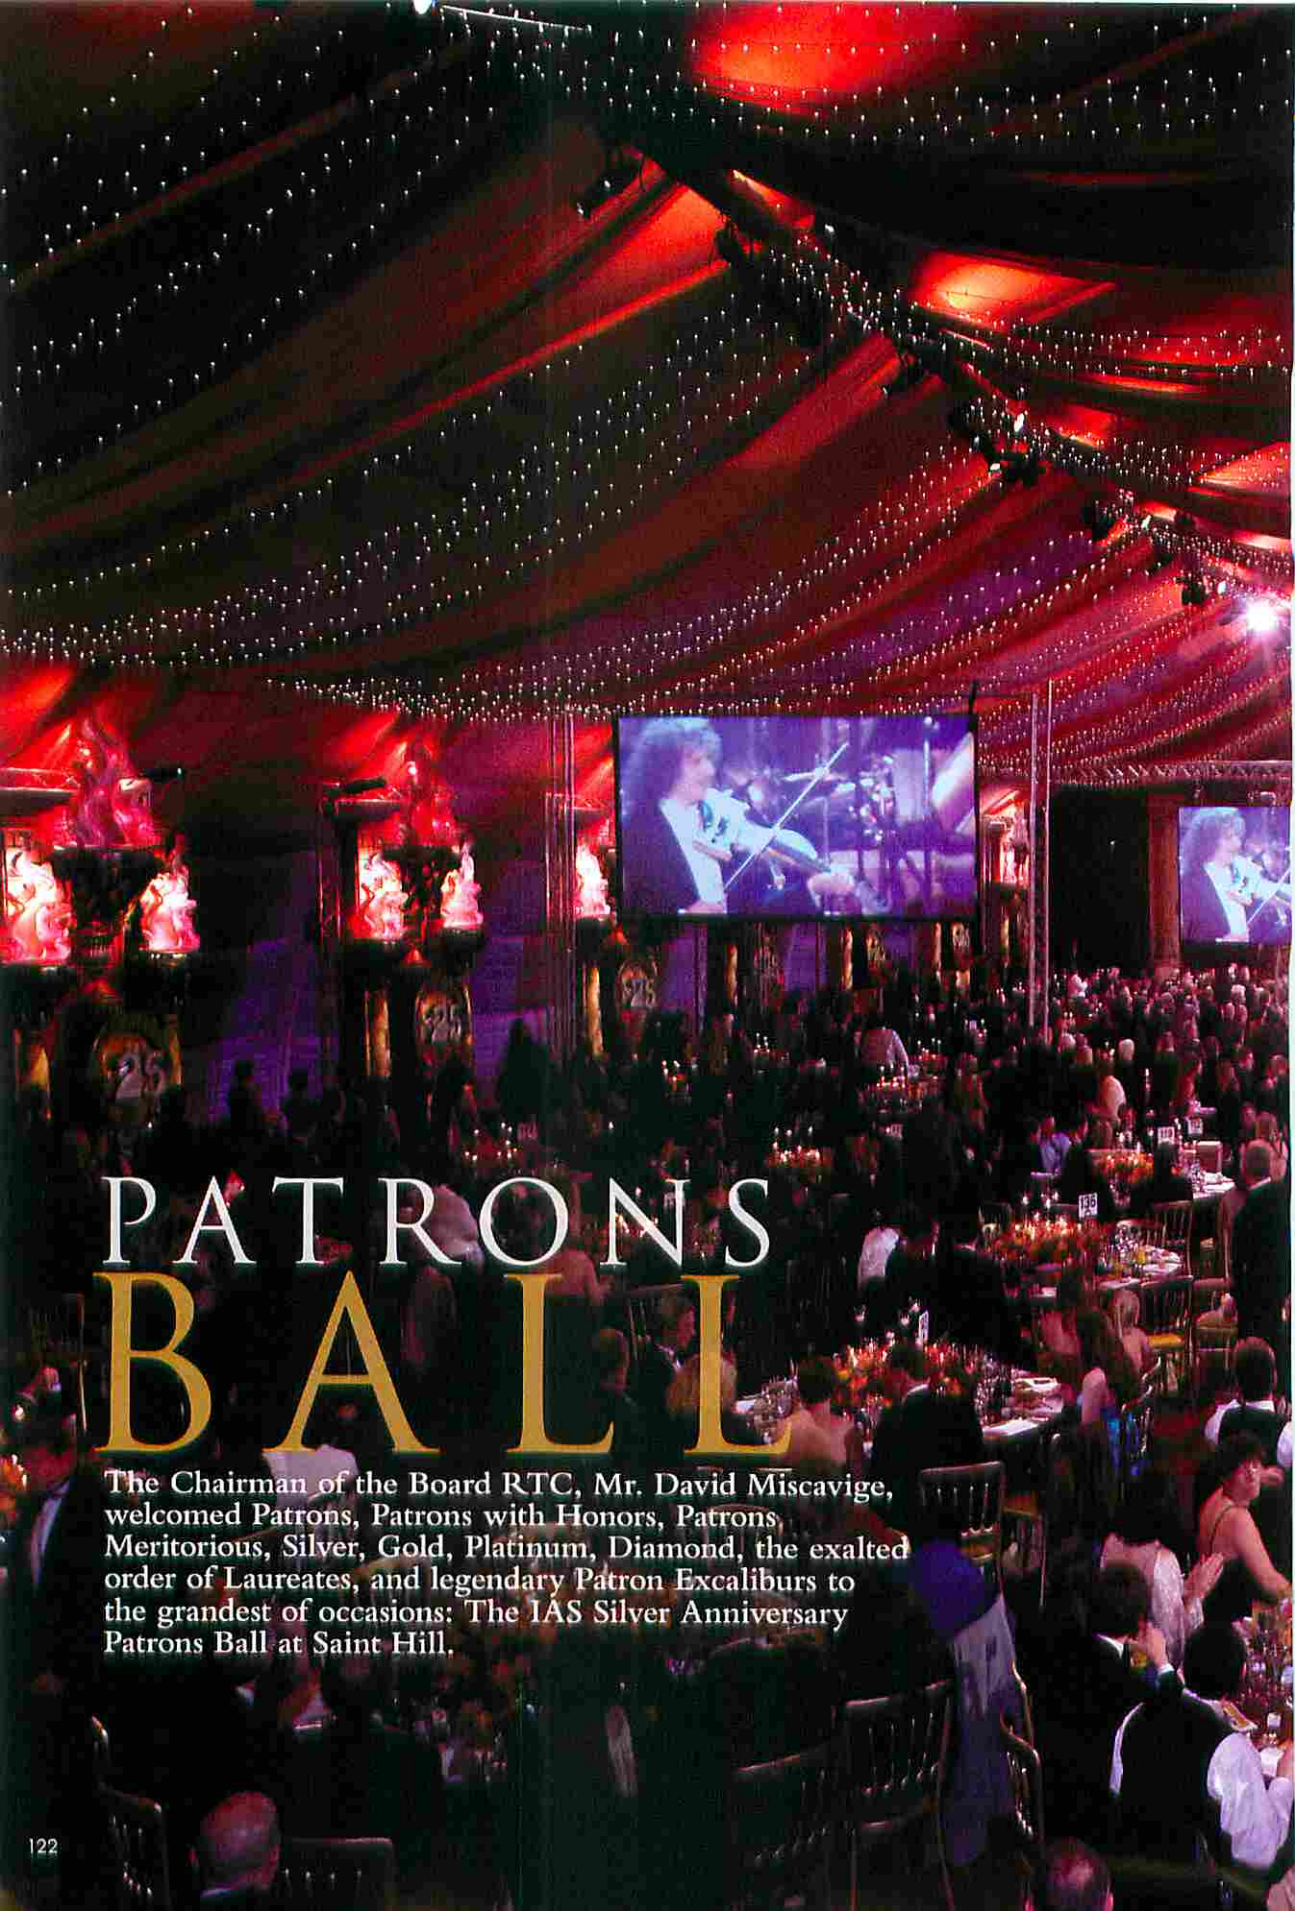

Because we have kept faith with one another.

Because we have been true to one another.

Because we know we're in this together.

And because, shoulder to shoulder, now and forever, we are the IAS.

PATRONS BALL

The Chairman of the Board RTC, Mr. David Miscavige, welcomed Patrons, Patrons with Honors, Patrons Meritorious, Silver, Gold, Platinum, Diamond, the exalted order of Laureates, and legendary Patron Excaliburs to the grandest of occasions: The IAS Silver Anniversary Patrons Ball at Saint Hill.

PATRONS

Patrons are a worldwide force representing more than 60 nations, now including Malta, Malaysia and South Korea. They are also an expanding force, with three new Patrons joining the ranks every day of the year.

But most of all, Patrons are the force behind all of what the IAS makes possible: the legions of Volunteer Ministers, the inglorious demise of psychiatry, the dawn of a "Way to Happiness" for whole populations and the three magnificent Ideal Orgs at cultural epicenters of Western civilization as previewed at the IAS 25th Anniversary event. This is the imprint Patrons make on this planet and their legacy in this world.

The IAS Silver Anniversary Patrons Ball was not only the largest gathering of Patrons in history, but the numbers of those awarded far surpassed any other Patrons Ball. It capped a year of the greatest outpouring of support in IAS history, and in keeping with IAS traditions, conventions and customs, Mr. Miscavige began the evening's ceremonies with presentations of gold Patron pins to 131 new Patrons. Their commemorative Patron plaques bear the inscription, "For outstanding support in ensuring the future of the Scientology religion throughout the world."

PATRON MERITORIOUS

Patron Meritorious is the status that was originally forged in 1989, and is the one that saw us through our darkest days, sustaining the war effort until our greatest triumph in 1993—full recognition in the United States. The award most appropriately bears these words from LRH: “Man is rich only in ratio to the number of individuals whose initiative and individuality will create a better future.” It ends with an inscription that reads, “As one who has enriched Mankind by helping to bring about a better future for all.” Thirty-eight new Patrons Meritorious were exuberantly acknowledged by the guests at the Patrons Ball as they went to the stage to receive their gold and diamond pins.

Silver Meritorious is an illustrious echelon and the 20 people presented with this award at the Patrons Ball are collectively capable of propelling all IAS-sponsored Fourth Dynamic Salvage Campaigns planetwide. Mr. Miscavige presented each new Silver Meritorious with the sapphire and diamond-studded pin signifying the level. Their silver trophies are engraved with these words from LRH: "It is not just freedom that is the goal; it is the maintaining of it one must assure."

GOLD MERITORIOUS

The level of dedication represented by Gold Meritorious is the one that propelled Scientology onto the global stage. Following its inauguration a whole new era of expansion was launched, beginning with the IAS-sponsored social betterment footholds.

The trophy appropriately bears the Aims of Scientology: "A civilization without insanity, without criminals and without war, where the able can prosper and honest beings can have rights, and where Man is free to rise to greater heights."

Eleven new Gold Meritorious recipients were welcomed to the stage: Rudi Floesser, Executive Director of Basel Org for the last 25 years; the father-and-son Dianetics dissemination team of Walter and Jason Hegetschweiler from Switzerland; top disseminator, contributor and Ideal Org crusader, Rony Himpe from Belgium; Dianetics crusader and the first Gold Meritorious from Finland, Kimmo Leskinen; Randy Doan from the great American state of Iowa who moved up to Gold Meritorious from Lifetime Membership this year; Larry and Madeline Lowe from Los Gatos where she is the LRH Communicator in their Ideal Org, he is a full-time Volunteer Minister; Jon Stachelrodt, frontline disseminator in the Pasadena WISE community; Michelle Seward, Youth for Human Rights President for five years running; Michael Holstein, top IAS Field Disseminator, his wife Jimena, one of Mexico's top FSMs, their daughter Marlena; and Tony and Margaret Brown, who were the UK's first Patron, first Patron with Honors, first Patron Meritorious, first Silver Meritorious and are now England's first Gold Meritorious.

PLATINUM MERITORIOUS

At ever more exalted heights of commitment is the status that broke the golden barrier—and placed Scientology in the world spotlight with Ideal Orgs arising in the cultural capitals of Earth. All of which is the substance of the inscription on the award for Platinum Meritorious: “We rise for the first time in Man’s history to a new freedom.”—LRH

It is further inscribed: “For demonstrating the difference a single individual can make in salvaging this planet, the International Association of Scientologists heralds this individual as a true Champion of Freedom.”

Ali and Noor Shawkat are human rights advocates, who work to restore human dignity to the streets of Baghdad, and resolute humanitarians who have earned a Legion of Honor for their contributions to Super Power. After becoming Patrons in 2007, they have steadily risen through the IAS Honor Statuses and are now honored as the first Platinum Meritorious of Iraq.

TORIOUS

Marian and Alzbeta Kapusta and their children hail from a country where Scientology is relatively new and spreading like wildfire. They discovered LRH Tech in 2004, became Lifetime Members shortly thereafter, and opened the first Scientology Mission in their hometown of Spisska Nova. He has disseminated through his region as Mission Holder, and she has helmed the Mission as its Executive Director. Together with their children they graced the stage as the very first Platinum Meritorious from Slovakia!

PLATINUM MERITORIOUS

Pat Clouden, Jennifer Sgroi-Stanzani and Cate Stanzani, representing the extended Clouden-Sgroi family were presented with the Platinum Meritorious award. They have personified commitment since day one of the IAS, were there in Buffalo when one of the first Ideal Orgs was created and have continued to raise the bar for Ideal Orgs and Super Power commitment.

They were among the first to stand as Gold Meritorious and were represented at the Silver Anniversary Patrons Ball as Platinum Meritorious.

PLATINUM MERITORIOUS

Sky Dayton personifies the resolute nature of our group. He has been determined to win since the day when, at 12 years old and with $20 in his pocket, he jumped on a train to Portland to join the Religious Freedom Crusade. That same raw determinism propelled him to found one of the world's largest Internet companies and further impels him and his wife to bring LRH Study Technology to new generations. He accepted the Platinum Meritorious award on behalf of his family.

PLATINUM MERITORIOUS

David and Bonita Wilson are a team that long ago redefined the phrase "unqualified commitment." Not only are they Cornerstone Super Power contributors three times over, they have also given their support to seven Ideal Orgs in the making. For their crowning achievement of the year, they achieved Platinum Meritorious.

Diamond Meritorious, all on its own, represents the ability to carry the IAS-sponsored Scientology Dissemination Campaign across the airwaves and Internet planetwide—or provide for Fourth Dynamic Salvage Campaigns to reach hundreds of millions. It radiates in brilliance and the trophy inscription bears these words from LRH: “My purpose is to bring a barbarism out of the mud it thinks conceived it and to form, here on Earth, a civilization based on human understanding, not violence. That’s a big purpose. A broad field. A star-high goal. But I think it’s your purpose, too.”

To this the IAS adds: “Among the leaders of a civilization there are those whose deeds set them apart. The International Association of Scientologists proclaims these as such leaders in achieving the star-high goal of Scientology.”

DIAMOND MERITORIOUS

Alan and Sheila Atkinson-Baker are just such leaders. As CEO and President of their company, which has been named as one of the fastest-growing private businesses in America, they have been introducing LRH Admin Tech to their employees for over a decade. While his name is on the outstanding rolls of the WISE sector, and hers on the staff list as Qualifications Secretary of LA Foundation, they are also on the roll books of contributors to Super Power, LRH books into libraries and the Ideal Org in Dallas.

In 2007 they were awarded Platinum Meritorious, and at the Silver Anniversary they were awarded as the newest Diamond Meritorious.

In ultimate testament to that phrase, "indiscriminate help," is an IAS Honor Status that signifies salvage and freedom for entire populations. It is so steeped in legend and lore that by its very name it signifies the ideals of a civilization. Those who attain it are the substance of legend in their own right.

It bears these words from LRH: "There is a higher goal, a better goal, a more glorious victory than gutted towns and radiation-burned dead. There is freedom and happiness and plenty and a whole Universe to be won. How much can Man conquer? He loses if he conquers Man. He wins if he conquers his own fears and conquers then the stars."

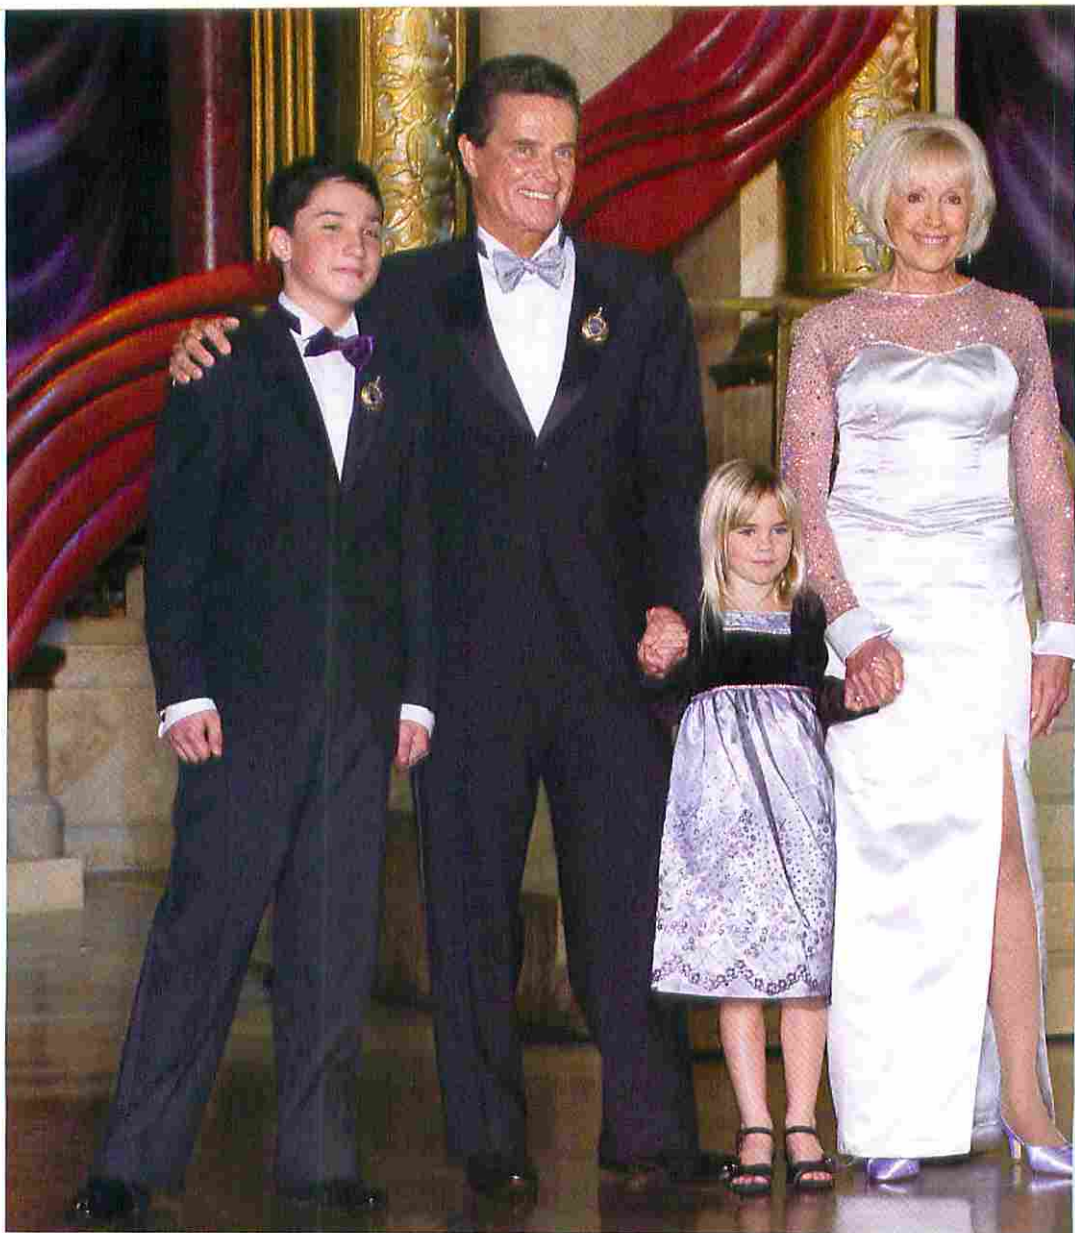

It also further bears these words from the IAS: "Time and again battles have been won and new territories conquered by men and women of great honor, courage and integrity. Among them are those of surpassing valor who give their all for Mankind and upon them the International Association of Scientologists bestows the distinction: Patron Excalibur."

PATRON EXCALIBUR

Elizabeth and Michael Baybak and their family have continually set an example as members of the IAS through the last 25 years. They are among the original Religious Freedom Crusaders and early Patrons of the IAS. They are CCHR psych busters and on the rolls of CCHR commissioners as well as key contributors to Super Power and New Civilization Builders for half a dozen new Ideal Orgs now on the horizon. All the while, they have ascended up the IAS Honor Statues at every opportunity and were presented as Patron Excalibur at the IAS Silver Anniversary.

PLATINUM EXCALIBUR

On the occasion of the IAS 25th year, Mr. Miscavige inaugurated three new levels of IAS commitment. They are levels which represent freedom itself and the undying commitment of leading Scientologists: A commitment to honestly and factually reach the orders of magnitude necessary to Planetary Clearing.

The phrase "raising the bar" is not an overworked cliché in their case. Upon accepting the highest IAS status last year—and while still on stage in front of cameras—they whispered under their breath, "What's the next level?" Hence, for the IAS Silver Anniversary, the following three new Honor Status levels were unveiled: Platinum Excalibur, Diamond Excalibur and Patron Maximus—shown on the following pages.

Bob and Trish Duggan are already legends in IAS annals, heroes to every Scientologist and the living embodiment of the words Dauntless, Defiant and Resolute. What they have done will never be forgotten, not in this time or any time after and here unto eternity, they can walk forward, standing tall and knowing full well they have indeed paid the price of freedom:

"Constant and continual alertness is the price of freedom. Constant willingness to fight back is the price of freedom. There is no other price, actually. And we have stayed across the world a free organization. There isn't anybody we have to take our hats off to. Nobody. We are a free people. And we may be the last free people on Earth. I don't wish to exaggerate, but we very well may be. And in that particular role, we are winning—beyond your imagination." Mr. Miscavige presented Bob and Trish Duggan, with their children David and Diana, as the first Platinum Excalibur.

PLATINUM EXCALIBUR

History chronicles those whose legendary exploits and sense of duty hold high the flame of freedom as a beacon to others. Such heroes in and of themselves create whole new worlds. The IAS honors and salutes them as Platinum Excalibur.

"Freedom belongs to the honest man. Free speech belongs to free hearts. Freedom and liberty are never rabble bought."
—L. Ron Hubbard

PATRON MAXIMUS

There are those whose exceptional exploits and achievements place them in a legendary realm. Such beings rekindle the dream of a spiritual age and so cast a new, brighter tomorrow. The International Association of Scientologists hereby honors and salutes them as Patron Maximus.

“Man has dreamed a dream for a very, very long time that he himself as an individual and he himself as a society could be free, that he himself could know and be in control of his own life to a marked degree. And Man has dreamed this dream for eons, and he has put a great deal of thought and effort forward in the direction of achieving that dream and that goal.

“Man can achieve these goals today of freedom for himself and his people through Scientology, providing he works hard, providing he works sincerely and providing he keeps this show on the road.”

—L. Ron Hubbard

EXPANSION SEMINAR

Members attending the IAS Seminar during the IAS Anniversary weekend geared up for action.

On the morning following the IAS Anniversary event, the traditional Expansion Seminar was held. Thousands of Scientologists from all over the world were given an inside look at our IAS-sponsored Fourth Dynamic Campaigns.

Speakers from International Scientology Management, the Church's Office of Special Affairs International and CCHR International provided an in-depth tour of the key, tactical and working details of all the IAS-sponsored Planetary Salvage Campaigns—orienting them to the full array of campaign tools and their use to address societal ruins in their zone.

As announced at the IAS 25th Anniversary event, with completion of The Way To Happiness film, each IAS-sponsored Fourth Dynamic Campaign now has the full lineup: booklets, PSAs and educational films—all packaged for easy use by educators in the delivery of comprehensive, life-changing curriculums.

Attendees were walked through each of the component parts of our Truth About Drugs, Human Rights and The Way to Happiness Educator's Packages, which are sent free of charge at the request of educators world over. Each package contains everything an educator could ever dream of—an Educator's Guide with lessons that engage students and make them want to learn, a DVD with PSAs to get their attention from lesson start, films to capture their interest, and booklets to provide yet a deeper understanding for practical application. In addition, each package contains booklets for every student in the class or group—for their use for in-class and homework assignments, and to share with others to spread the program even further.

With these tools, we now have in hand everything we need to bring on the full body of planetary salvage technology necessary to address the societal ruins our campaigns are designed to handle:

- Raising awareness and bringing about implementation of fundamental human rights everywhere.
- Protecting the younger generation against the deadly lure of drugs.
- And instilling values and restoring self-respect in students, prisoners and businessmen alike.

As for the troops that will carry out these planetary salvage strategies, they are the members of the IAS—now empowered to effectively yield these powerful weapons to shine the light of truth, knowledge and education where it is most needed.

Hence the vital importance of IAS Field Disseminators in expanding the membership and raising funds. Field Disseminators are members who, no matter what else they do, help expand the ranks of the IAS by assisting others to increase their membership and Honor Status. For their work, they receive a 10 percent fundraising commission on all memberships and funds raised. A new IAS Field Disseminator kit was provided to all attending the seminar and is available from IAS Administrations. It is filled with materials you can use to get started: a booklet of LRH quotes, a brochure on the IAS and its activities plus a DVD on the importance of the IAS and supplies of forms.

The IAS Field Disseminator kit provides you with all of the materials needed to get into action and assist people to increase their status in the IAS. Field Disseminators earn a 10 percent fundraising commission for all memberships and for all funds raised.

IAS FREEDOM MEDAL WINNERS SUMMIT

Flying in from 15 countries, including India, the US, South Africa and Taiwan, the largest gathering of IAS Freedom Medal Winners in history met in Saint Hill to celebrate the Silver Anniversary of the IAS and to set their sights on key IAS expansion targets in the coming year.

Chaired by Mr. Terry MacMahon from IAS Administrations, this year's Summit focused on the Medal Winners' role as IAS ambassadors to expand and strengthen the IAS to help accomplish its aims and humanitarian objective.

Ms. Karin Alpers from IAS Administrations delivered the opening address, stressing that with the IAS now supporting more grants for strategic campaigns than ever in history, Freedom Medal Winners play an ever-increasing role in rallying the Scientology field under the banner of the IAS to support and expand these campaigns. She pointed out that a key means to reach out with this message and get all Scientologists on board and moving up the Honor Status levels is through the nine IAS World Tours launched during the past year, which she said Medal Winners have used to great effect to enlighten and inspire the field on the role and purpose of the IAS.

Ms. Karin Alpers presented Alfredie Johnson with the IAS 25th Anniversary Freedom Medal Winner pin.

2009 Medal Winner Andrés López joins fellow Latin American Medal Winners, Ruddy Rodríguez, Gurrís Nieto, Audrey Cabrera, Javier Ramírez and Martha Ballesteros.

Mr. Dave Bloomberg briefed on the Scientology Campaign and Internet.

Tim Bowles, Kevin Jones and Greg Capazorio, all have been honored with IAS Freedom Medals for their work in Africa.

Michael Nielsen schedules dates on the IAS World Tour as a guest speaker with Mr. Roberto Toppi.

The special IAS 25th Anniversary gift for Medal Winners attending the Summit was an IAS Freedom Medal lapel pin.

FREEDOM MEDAL

Mr. Roberto Toppi then addressed the Summit and gave an in-depth briefing on the IAS World Tours and what they have accomplished. During the past year, Medal Winners have accompanied the IAS World Tours on events in 39 cities in 15 countries, from Slovakia and Spain to Canada and Costa Rica, reaching people with the message of just what can be accomplished when the most dauntless, defiant and resolute group combines its forces towards a common goal.

To acknowledge those Medal Winners who accomplished the annual target of major IAS events and World Tours delivered during the past year, Ms. Alpers presented each of them with the IAS Freedom Medal Winner 25th IAS Anniversary pin. In total, 19 Medal Winners were acknowledged for attaining the goal set and for their dedication and support of the IAS World Tour program during the past year.

The Medal Winners were then given a special briefing from International Management speaker, Mr. Dave Bloomberg. Mr. Bloomberg gave them an in-depth briefing on the Scientology Dissemination Campaign and the latest Internet marketing tools and developments to reach the 1.6 billion Internet users worldwide. He gave the Medal Winners all the latest statistics of the campaign.

CAROLINE COLLEN, 2004

Caroline was awarded the Freedom Medal in 2004 for her work in establishing the Criminon program in the Indonesian prison system with full government support. Since that time, the program has gone from strength to strength with over 3,000 inmates graduating the full Criminon program in Indonesia, just last year alone. One Indonesian prison, Cirebon, has been turned into a Criminon showcase where inmates from all over Indonesia are sent to do the program and are then transferred to other prisons to complete their sentences. Criminon staff and graduates from Cirebon now deliver lectures in the local community on ethics and crime prevention. A prison industry was started in Cirebon where inmates make furniture and other products, grow vegetables and then share in the profits with the prison and the government, thereby enabling them to support their families and invest in their future.

Caroline is now working with fellow OT VIII's Char Shipman and her husband, Len, to establish the new Sydney Ideal Org.

MARC ARRIGHI, 2006

In addition to continuing Volunteer Minister activities in Pondicherry, India, and neighboring towns and villages—including graduating over 4,400 on the Learning How to Learn Study Tech seminar in 44 schools—Marc and his wife, Prisca, and their team have also been increasing awareness of human rights during the past year using the materials from the IAS-sponsored United for Human Rights Campaign. In the past six months the human rights public service announcements (subtitled in Tamil) and programs on the Study Tech seminars have aired over 330 times on 23 television stations in India. With 177 radio programs on the airwaves and 207 print media articles spreading the news of their activities, word of LRH Tech has reached over 35 million people across the State of Tamil Nadu, Southeast India.

LAWRENCE ANTHONY, 1996

Since receiving the Freedom Medal for his work in bringing apartheid-era psychiatrists to justice for human rights violations in South Africa, Lawrence has strived to increase public awareness and understanding of the Fifth and Sixth Dynamics by working in the field of conservation and preservation.

Following the Iraq invasion, Lawrence left his Zululand game reserve for Baghdad to rescue the inhabitants of the Middle East's largest zoo. For his courageous rescue of the animals, Lawrence received the prestigious United Nations Earth Trustee Award, the UN Earth Day Medal, and was inducted into the by-invitation-only Explorers Club.

Growing increasingly concerned about environmental issues the more he researched, Lawrence founded The Earth Organization (TEO) in 2003 to raise awareness of Mankind's vital partnership for survival with the natural world and, through effective education and conservation activities, to bring workable, science-based, down-to-earth solutions to the environmental challenges faced by all. The Earth Organization is now active in 13 countries and investigates to find the real source of an environmental problem and focuses on the resolution of that specific problem, thereby ensuring the reversal of a decaying situation.

The photographs were taken at Ron's home, Saint Hill Manor, where the IAS Freedom Medal Winners Summit was held.

ARE YOU READY TO WEAR THIS MEDAL?

Each year the IAS awards the prestigious IAS Freedom Medal to members whose stellar accomplishments constitute major strides forward in achieving the Aims of Scientology and the purpose of the IAS. These Scientologists have decided to put their heart and soul into using LRH Technology to salvage this planet and guarantee the future of Scientology. We have the campaigns to make it happen.

How are you forwarding our objectives across the planet? Let us know and we will help you accomplish your immediate goals in alignment with the international campaigns—and take them to levels worthy of a Freedom Medal. If you know of someone who qualifies, find out how to nominate them. Contact the Director of IAS Freedom Medal Winners at:

Membership NEWS

To commemorate the IAS 25th Anniversary the Lifetime Members and those with Honor Status are being sent new Landmark Membership cards. Each carries the IAS 25th Anniversary logo, and is an acknowledgement for being a part of the IAS during our first 25 years. Cards are being sent out from now until the end of the year.

All members are encouraged to move up to the highest status they can possibly reach by December 31st, and so carry the Landmark Membership card as we head into the next decade. Field Disseminators will also be sent new Landmark Honor Roll or Senior Honor Roll cards, which is an incentive for all to get into action before the year ends.

In honor of the IAS 25th Anniversary, IAS Landmark Membership and status cards are being issued to all Lifetime Members and those with Honor Statuses—but only until the end of the year.

THE IAS IS THE GLUE THAT HOLDS
EVERYTHING TOGETHER. FOR ALL ELSE
SCIENTOLOGISTS MAY BE—SEA ORG MEMBERS,
STAFF MEMBERS, AUDITORS, FSMS, STUDENTS AND PRECLEARS—WE ARE, EACH AND EVERY ONE OF US, MEMBERS OF THE IAS.

AS A UNITED TEAM WE GUARANTEE THE FUTURE OF SCIENTOLOGY
FOR ETERNITY. WHATEVER ELSE YOU DO AS A SCIENTOLOGIST, SUPPORT THE IAS.

YOU MAKE IT HAPPEN.
ADVANCE YOUR IAS STATUS NOW!

BENEFITS OF MEMBERSHIP

FREE 6 MONTH MEMBERSHIP

Anyone who has not previously had an IAS membership is invited to receive a Free 6 Month Membership.

Members receive Impact and mailings from the IAS and their membership card. Donations requested by Churches of Scientology for participation in auditing and training services are lower for members. Churches also offer members discounts on the purchase of LRH books and materials.¹

ANNUAL MEMBERSHIP

Annual Membership is valid for one year. It entitles the holder to benefits granted by the Association including a membership card and copies of Impact, the Association's magazine. Annual Members receive briefings to keep them abreast of events and other important news in Scientology, invitations to events sponsored by the Association and have the right to participate in IAS award programs and projects.

Increased Bridge progress: Donations requested by Churches of Scientology for participation in auditing and training services are lower for members. Churches also offer members discounts on the purchase of LRH books and materials.¹ You are eligible for these benefits for the duration of your membership.

LIFETIME MEMBERSHIP

Lifetime Membership is your statement that you are on the team for life. It is valid for the lifetime of the holder and entitles you to all benefits and privileges granted by the Association.

Lifetime Bridge progress: In consideration of your Lifetime Membership status, donations requested by Churches of Scientology for participation in auditing and training services are lower for you. You will also be eligible for discounts on the purchase of LRH books and materials—for life.¹

¹ Subject to national law and regulations.

Rules of MEMBERSHIP

1. ANY SCIENTOLOGIST who is in good standing with a Church of Scientology may become a member of the Association.

2. ANYONE who is not a Scientologist but who is in agreement with the Pledge to Mankind and the Aims of Scientology may, upon contribution to the Association, be accorded the status of Associate by the Association. Associate status does not entitle the holder to the benefits and privileges of membership.

3. THERE ARE three categories of membership: Free 6 Month Membership, Annual Membership and Lifetime Membership.

4. FREE 6 Month Membership is available to anyone who has not previously had an IAS membership. There are no dues for Free 6 Month Membership. Free Membership is valid for a period of six months and is not renewable; an individual may obtain a Free 6 Month Membership only once. Free 6 Month Members are issued a Free 6 Month Membership card. They will receive the Association's magazine Impact and other mailings from the Association during the course of their membership.

5. ANNUAL MEMBERSHIP is valid for one year. Membership dues for Annual Membership are set by the Association and are $500 U.S. (or its equivalent in other currencies) in most countries.

Annual Membership may be renewed at any time by payment to the Association of the next year's membership dues. Annual Membership entitles the holder to all the benefits and privileges granted by the Association to its Annual Members.

6. LIFETIME MEMBERSHIP is valid for the duration of the present lifetime of the holder. Membership dues for Lifetime Membership are $5,000 U.S. (or its equivalent in other currencies). Lifetime Membership entitles the holder to all the benefits and privileges granted by the Association to its Lifetime Members.

7. SPECIAL HONOR statuses may be awarded by the Association for outstanding contribution as designated by the Association. These honor statuses are valid for the duration of the membership of the holder. Special recognitions and awards are given to members who have attained these honor statuses.

8. THE HONOR status of Founding Member is granted to all with Lifetime Membership dated 31 December 1994 or earlier. This honor status is valid for the lifetime of the member. Founding Members are eligible for all benefits and privileges of this status as announced, including a Founding Member certificate and Founding Member Lifetime Membership card.

9. THE HONOR status of Founding Patron is granted to all who attained Patron status by the end of the IAS 20th Anniversary weekend, 31 October 2004, as follows: Founding Patrons, Founding Patrons with Honors, Founding Patrons Meritorious, Founding Silver Meritorious, Founding Gold Meritorious and Founding Platinum Meritorious. All Founding Patrons receive a special membership card showing their level of Founding Patron status.

10. FREE 6 Month Members may apply for Annual Membership or Lifetime Membership at any time. Annual Members may apply for Lifetime Membership at any time.

11. MEMBERSHIP in any category is not transferable, nor are any rights, benefits or privileges of membership transferable.

12. THE ASSOCIATION accepts donations in any amount from members or non-members.

13. MEMBERSHIP DUES and donations to the Association are not refundable.

14. MEMBERSHIP in any category or Associate status may be cancelled should the member, or Associate, publicly disavow or attack the Association or, in the case of a member, fail to remain in good standing with a Church of Scientology.

15. MEMBERS ARE required to keep their mailing address up-to-date with the Association so vital communication may be relayed. The Association in turn will guarantee that such information is kept secure and only used in forwarding the Aims of Scientology and the purpose of the Association.

16. MEMBERS HAVE the right to participate in all membership activities which assist in the expansion of Scientology around the world.

DONATION FORM US IAS MEMBERS' TRUST

I hereby make a donation to the US IAS Members' Trust.*

I understand that the US IAS Members' Trust supports the purpose of the IAS which is to unite, advance, support and protect the Scientology religion and Scientologists in all parts of the world so as to achieve the Aims of Scientology as originated by L. Ron Hubbard.

I promise to abide by the rules, codes and policies of Scientology and I do not belong to or work for any hostile organization or group or any group undisclosed to the Association that is dedicated to the harming of Mankind.

I understand that all donations will be used towards the protection and dissemination of the Scientology religion and the fight for spiritual freedom for all Mankind.

I understand that donations to the US IAS Members' Trust are not refundable.

I agree that the personal information I have provided on this form, and any other information I may later provide to the US IAS Members' Trust, may be stored and processed for the purpose of membership administration and to provide me with mailings from the US IAS Members' Trust and the IAS.

RESHAPING THE DESTINY OF EARTH HONOR ROLL

The IAS Reshaping the Destiny of Earth Honor Roll has proven so popular with IAS Field Disseminators that it has been made a permanent IAS program and expanded to the new platinum levels. The members listed here are helping to ensure the future of Scientology by assisting Scientologists to get on board as members and move up the membership and Honor Status levels.
